

GIVEN A CHANCE

Judge Pickman Favored a Youthful Drunkard

Parole Man From State Farm Captured by Officer Rourke and Sent Back — Man From Dracut Inn Said He Would Like to Kill the Officer

James Keene, a young man attired in knee pants and just able to look over the top of the cage in police court was arraigned this morning on a complaint charging him with being a common drunkard. A couple of police officers testified to seeing the young man drunk on various occasions while several other witnesses testified as to his drunken habits.

According to the testimony offered, Keene chums around with a gang of rowdies in the vicinity of Coburn street and Lakeview avenue who make life miserable for the residents of that section.

Patrolman Quinn testified to having seen Keene drunk eight times within a month. Benjamin Holden saw him drunk four or five times in a couple of months and Thompson Avery said Keene had been drunk three or four times in three weeks. A Mrs. Salmon said she saw the prisoner drunk on a number of occasions and Patrolman Corcoran said Keene had been drunk twice since the 27th of June.

Keene acknowledged that he got drunk once in a while and chummed around with a rather tough gang.

After the testimony in the case had been offered Judge Pickman turned to the young man said: "Now it rests with you whether you go to jail for five or six months or enjoy freedom. There are several things in your favor. You work and you have been here but once before and your appearance is in your favor. Now I am going to give you a chance and see if you will appreciate it and try and make a man of yourself." The court then imposed a sentence of five months in jail and suspended the sentence.

WAS FINED $7.

Natt. W. Pillsbury pleaded guilty to indecent conduct yesterday on a train belonging to the Boston & Maine R. R. between Manchester and Lowell. He was fined $7 which he paid.

FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Michael Dison pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and assault and battery on Joseph Korsak. Inasmuch as the latter did not care to press the complaint the prisoner was fined $3 for drunkenness while the assault case was filed. J. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the government.

John J. O'Hare, a third offender, received a suspended sentence of two months in jail.

Edwin Flynn, drunkenness, was placed on probation.

Patrick Donlon, a second offender, was

QUINTET OF BOYS

Broke Into Bootblackening Parlors

The bootblackening emporium conducted by Frank De George in Post Office avenue was broken into last night by a quintet of boys whose ages ranged from 11 to 14 years, and quite a little loot was secured, but they did not have time enough to enjoy what they had stolen when Patrolman Gilbert Sheridan had cornered the gang.

The boys made an entrance through a rear window and succeeded in stealing a box of 50 Marksman cigars, twenty packages of cigarettes, a couple of pounds of tobacco and 1000 tobacco tags.

They will appear in the delinquent court next Friday morning.

There will be four more boys before the delinquent court Friday morning, all charged with the larceny of newspapers from doorways.

Three of the four will appear to answer to a charge of stealing 25 papers from the residence of his mother, 10 Irving street, yesterday afternoon. The fourth, yesterday afternoon, services were conducted by Rev. L. C. Manchester, pastor of St. John's Episcopal church. The barriers

WE WANT A COMPETENT MILK INSPECTOR—

Not a mere politician who knows nothing of chemistry, who will sit around his office and do nothing—

WM. W. DENNETT

Not a Candidate for Milk Inspector

It was reported at the city hall today that William W. Dennett, chemist in the office of the inspector of milk and vinegar was a candidate for the position made vacant by Major Allen. Mr. Dennett is a teacher in the High School, a graduate of Harvard, and said to be a very careful and very efficient chemist, but he is not a candidate for the job.

"Are you a candidate for the office of inspector of milk and vinegar?" asked a reporter, and Mr. Dennett replied that he was not a candidate. "I'm filling in until some one is appointed and confirmed," he said.

THE WM. DOUGLAS

Not Considered in a Dangerous Position

VINEYARD HAVEN, July 20.—The tug Mercury and Orion arrived alongside the six masted schooner William L. Douglas, which stranded on Lucas Shoal half way down Vineyard Sound yesterday about dawn and today word was received from Boston that additional wrecking apparatus was on the way to the assistance of the vessel.

The Douglas was not considered to be in a dangerous position as the shoal is of sand and is well sheltered by the highlands of the island from heavy southerly gales.

Captain Arthur Crowley of the Coastwise Transportation company, the owners of the Douglas, came down from Boston on the Mercury and went on board the schooner.

It was thought today that after part of the cargo of coal had been lighted an effort would be made to haul the Douglas off the shoals by heavy anchors and tackles and the assistance of the tugs.

DARING BURGLARY

In Coffey's Store, Suffolk Street Last Night

Burglars Entered by Removing Iron Screen for Window — Money Drawer Hacked Off With Cleaver and Meat Axe and Taken Away

A bold burglary took place during the night at the provision store of Mr. Humphrey Coffey, in Suffolk street, between Market and Fenwick streets, and the burglars undoubtedly were not only familiar with the interior of the store but also with the movements of the officer on the beat.

They effected an entrance by removing the screws that held the lower part of an iron screen on a side window in an alley just around the corner of Suffolk street. By pulling out the over-end of the screen they crawled under it and through the open window into the store. They then took a meat hatchet and a large cleaver and proceeded to the office in the rear of the store broke off the money drawer which contained about $2 in small change and carried the entire drawer away with them. They went through the other drawers in the store but did not attempt to open the safe in which a large amount of money was secreted.

In the money drawer taken away was a bunch of keys including the keys to the inner drawers of the safe. These they took away and Mr. Coffey found himself unable to get at the contents of the safe drawers this morning. The burglars then went through the cash drawers and large stock of canned goods, etc., evidently having a lunch and taking some food away with them. The floor of the office was littered with burned matches showing that the marauders were in the store some little time. They left the store by a rear door which they opened from the inside.

The windows of the office look out upon a rear area of alley and Mr. Coffey believes that the burglars on Saturday night having seen him placing the small change in the money drawer believed that he was depositing the day's receipts and made the break with the intention of making a big haul. The police were notified but have no clue to the identity of the burglars. The break was particularly daring as the location is one in which there are people moving about all hours of the night.

OUR MILK SUPPLY FOR PLAYGROUNDS

Acting Inspector Dennett Speaks of It An Association to Be Formed in Lowell

NEW BALL GROUNDS PROPOSED

On the West Side of Fort Hill Park

Asked today as to the quality of Lowell's milk at the present time, William W. Dennett, the chemist who has been analyzing the milk since Mr. Irish took charge of the office, or since the time that the late Major Allen was obliged to quit work because of illness, said: "The milk is very good but there is a high proportion of fats as compared with the solids that are not fat. Ordinarily this would give the impression that water was being added to the milk, but I think that is not the fact. It may be due to fodder or to the condition of the cow."

"Have the farmers been asked to explain it?" queried the reporter.

"Yes, they have," replied Mr. Dennett, "and they lay it to the very hot weather. They say that the cows lie under the trees during the day and are kept busy flicking flies. They say the cows do not eat much and drink a great deal. They also claim that the pastures are dry and do not afford the ordinary amount of nourishment and they have to feed a lot of grain to keep the cows in a condition to give milk that is up to the standard."

Mr. Dennett, in reply to the reporter's questions, said that the department covers five or six milkmen a day. The collector always takes two samples in order to give both parties, the milkman and the law, a fair show.

Besides the samples that are collected, milkmen are constantly bringing samples to the chemist to learn if the milk is up to the standard. They may have reason to believe that the milk is not standing up to the mark and they prefer to remedy it rather than go to court.

An Error by Hickman Rattled Pender and Home Team Proceeded to Pound Him—Doran Played Fine Game at First

The home team presented a rather mixed up lineup against Brockton Saturday owing to the release of Duff and the absence of Howard, the fast center fielder of the Lowell team. Duff was released Friday night and joined the Lawrence team. Rivald was sent to center field to fill Howard's position while Doran, the new catcher, was placed on first base. Jim Beard, pitcher and outfielder, joined the Lowell team Saturday and on Monday another pitcher is expected to report, the man in question having been recommended by the man who recommended Howard.

Kenniston was on the slab but half an inning when he was relegated to the bench and Rivald was sent in to pitch and Beard took his place in center.

The game had not been in progress three minutes when Umpire O'Brien imposed a fine of $5 on Hickman for talking.

The lineup of the team was as follows:

FIRST INNING.

The visitors changed the ball out for three runs in the first inning and the heavy stick work was productive of Kenniston being removed from the slab. Hickman was the first man up. He hit to Kenniston and failed to touch first. McKernan got a free pass then Waters slammed the ball for two bases and McKernan travelled home. Waters went to third on a wild pitch. Catterson was second out on a fly to Ulnae. Donovan then sent the ball over the right field fence for a homer and two runs were scored. Bannion closed the inning with a fly to Magee.

In Lowell's half Vandergrift hit to right field and was safe. Connors struck out. Zinsnar hit to McKernan, who threw to second, getting Vandergrift and the ball was sent to first for a "Doubtful" play.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

SECOND INNING.

In the second inning Reardon hit a grounder to Vandergrift and was out at first. Mitchell and Pender hit grounders to Ulnae and were out at first. Magee struck out and Rivald flied out to McKernan. Ulnae drew a free pass, but Doran flied out to Donovan.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

THIRD INNING.

Hickman hit to Vandergrift and was out at first. McKernan hit to Ulnae and was retired at first. Waters then slammed out another two bager, but in trying to steal third was nailed. Lemeux flied out to Bannion and Beard struck out. Vandergrift hit one too hot for Mitchell to handle in the run to throw him out at first and the time was safe. Connors hit a long the first base line and Reardon nailed him.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

FOURTH INNING.

Catterson hit to Vandergrift and was out at first. Donovan flied out to Beard and Bannion hit to Vandergrift and died at first.

In the latter half of the fourth inning Zinsnar hit to McKernan and was out at first. Magee followed with a fly to Mitchell and Rivald hit to Pender and failed to reach first.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Reardon flied to Connors. Mitchell flied to Vandergrift and Pender hit down the first base line to Doran and was third out.

Ulnae hit to McKernan and was out at first. Donovan flied out to Reardon and Lemeux fell a victim to three spit balls.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

Hickman got a base on balls and went to second on McKernan's sacrifice. Waters hit to Rivald and was thrown out at first. Hickman taking third on the play. Catterson hit a hot stop and threw the ball to first. Catterson was called "safe" by the umpire and the crowd kicked but it looked as if Catterson beat out the ball all right. Hickman scored on the play. Donovan flied out to Vandergrift.

Beard struck out and Vandergrift sent a grounder to Mitchell and was out at first. Connors bunted to McKernan and was thrown out at first on a close decision that angered the crowd.

Score—Brockton 4, Lowell 0.

SEVENTH INNING.

In the seventh inning Bannion flied out to Connors. Bannion got a single and Mitchell followed with another. Pender struck out. Hickman knocked a two bager and scored Reardon. McKernan was third out.

Zinsnar flied out to Bannion. Magee hit to Mitchell and the latter made an error and the runner was safe. Rivald and Ulnae popped flies to Reardon.

Score—Brockton 4, Lowell 0.

EIGHTH INNING.

Waters struck out. Catterson flied to Connors and Donovan flied to Beard. Doran drew a base on balls. Lemeux followed with a hit to Hickman, the latter fumbling the ball. Beard hit a Texas leaguer to center field, filling the bases. Vandergrift flied to Catterson and Doran scored on the put out. Connors got a base on balls, filling the bases again. Zinsnar got a single to center and scored Lemeux and Beard. Magee singled, scoring Connors. Rivald hit to Hickman, who threw Magee out. In sliding for first Rivald injured his leg, but was safe. Captain Bannion refused to give Rivald a runner but Manager Flanagan insisted that a runner be sent in. Ulnae singled to center field, scoring Zinsnar and Doran, the latter running for Rivald. Doran then went to bat and sending the ball to right field scored Ulnae. Lemeux got a base on balls. Beard flied out to Bannion, closing the inning.

Score—Lowell 7, Brockton 5.

NINTH INNING.

In the ninth inning Bannion hit a hot one to Rivald, who knocked it down and threw him out at first. Reardon hit a fly to Zinsnar, who dropped it. Mitchell flied out to Beard. McGovern went to bat for Pender. He flied out to Magee.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lowell at Haverhill, today.

Only one home game this week.

It seems that the man who discovered Howard for Manager Winn needed Howard's services on the Beverly team against Reckport and wrote to Winn asking for Howard in payment to him for getting him for the Lowell team. Winn allowed Howard to go to Beverly where he made four hits in the game. The story about him being ill proved to be only hot air. This same man, however, promises to produce a pitcher who will show the league something real and if he does we'll forgive him for stealing Howard away on Saturday.

Our clever and mysterious correspondent "J. Carpenter" has got the fans going as the result of his very readable communication in Saturday's Sun.

Wolfe is out of the game with a couple of punctured ribs.

Jimie Beard, who joined Lowell Saturday, can play the outfield and can pitch. He used to be a hard hitter, into the bargain.

Winn was going to can Rivald after Saturday's game but in view of the fine up-hill game that Nap pitched after Kennist on went bad it would be hardly right to let him down.

The few Lowell fans who make a practice of voting against the home team received a severe stinging Saturday.

Zinsnar had a bad week in right field. He pays too much attention to the flies of the bleachers.

Steve Flanagan is a good sportsman and he demonstrated the fact in Saturday's game. Rivald injured his knee in going to first at a critical stage of the game. Sharrett asked permission to give him a runner but Capt. Bannion refused the request. It looked as if Rivald would have to trip it out when Manager Flanagan called to Sharrett to let Doran run for him. Bannion kicked but Flanagan was the boss.

In his effort to "show off" Sharrett, Hickman made the error that lost the game.

Paddy Duff has gone to Lawrence. With Murch at first and Eaton and Duggan catching Paddy will have to go some to keep on the team.

WINN'S DEFENCE

"Regular" Replies to J. Carpenter

RELATIVE TO LOWELL TEAM

Lowell is Playing First Division Ball

Lowell, Mass., July 13, 1908.

Editor Sun:—The letter signed "J. Carpenter," published today in your paper has no doubt been read with interest by a great many followers of the game.

I have no means of knowing how regular an attendant our friend may be, but I can vouch for my own regularity.

While I do not personally agree with all of Owner Winn's ideas in handling the team and would not attempt to class him with Burkett and Hamilton, I must certainly take exceptions to the statement that he has not acted in good faith with the baseball public of Lowell.

He has surely done something no one else had the nerve to do when he made Washington park what it is.

The team has certainly been greatly improved since the third week of play, which shows, if nothing more, an honest endeavor to get a fast team.

Whether this has been accomplished is a matter of opinion as to what constitutes a fast team.

In my own humble opinion, we have an outfit representing Lowell that no one need be ashamed of, if it is near the bottom.

Everyone who attends the games knows that during the early part of the season we did not have even an apology of a team. This is well shown by the first fifteen games of which Lowell won only two.

Counting the win today, we have won 28 and lost 39.

Now, if our friend Carpenter and other knockers will deduct the record of the first fifteen games from the present standing, we will get a good idea of the class of baseball we are getting for our money. The record would then stand—Won 26, lost 26.

If Boston had a team in either league that had won fifty per cent of the games the fans would have their fill of joy.

I am not in any sense questioning the quality of baseball handed out to us in the beginning of the season, but do want most strongly to call attention to the fact that the team as made up today is playing an article of baseball inferior to only three teams. We are certainly as strong as Haverhill. It is first division ball we are getting if the knockers don't know it.

YESTERDAY'S SHOWER

Refreshed All Nature and Delighted the Farmers

Wasn't yesterday's rain a jolly one? What do you care if you were personally inconvenienced? If your dress suffered all kinds of abuses from the splash of the big drops and my new Panama hat was made to look like a little bit of bedding from Fido's kennel when we knew that the earth was choking for a drink?

Poor old Mother Earth's thirst had been longing for a dry town such as Woburn faded to the obscurity of the evening shadows. And there was the farmer and his dear old wife, and their sons and daughters, and the wives and husbands of their sons and daughters, sitting on the shingle-worn piazza gazing into the downpour with a spirit that would inspire a barn dance at noon day. Their crops had been burning up, and looking far out into the fields they could see the erstwhile withered plants sitting up and taking notice, although the blossoms had come and gone from the potato yet the vine craned its narrow neck and moistened its parched lips with nectar from the heavens.

A strange movement was witnessed in the parks. It seemed as if the surface of the earth were alive or that millions of creeping things were moving about on it. It was the famished grass revived by the favor from the clouds. One by one the death-bed blades would rear their heads and absorb the elixir of life.

The birds knew that the rain was coming and they heralded it with their sweet rain notes. They were seen to ruffle their feathers that they too might take unto their bodies the blessed rain. While the thunder proclaimed the coming of the storm the leaves on the trees trembled with a nervous tremble. They were thirsty and dirty and it was a two-fold mission that the rain performed for them. This morning the little birds, fresh from nature's bath, twittered their carols from branches made sweet and clean by the pouring rain and how beautifully fresh and invigorated does Nature seem today!

The rain of yesterday, as has already been suggested, may have discommoded you to the extent of ruining a favorite garment or canceling an engagement but as a panacea for your ills think of the many that the rain benefited, and cheer up.

The early morning hours did not give promise of the showers that developed later in the day, except that one would naturally look forward to some sort of relief from the heat, the oppressiveness of which was augmented by the stillness of the air. The day was but young, however, when the temperature began to play a most remarkable game of puss-in-the-corner, and made a record that was almost absolutely new for a July day.

When the wind did start it kept shifting around between northeast and southeast and not until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon did the big drops, the advance outfit of the whirlwind showers, strike the pavements. Then there was something doing. It was a case of winding sheets with a few comforters thrown in, and despite the fact that it was falling at the rate of "steep" gallons a second the hungry earth licked it up almost as fast as it fell.

It was Lowell's turn for a good shower. We had been saying mean things about the weather man and just to show that there was no "cant" on his part he reached up and pulled open the floodgates over Lowell and vicinity. Only a few drops told the sweltering souls in Boston that we were having our annual bath, but Boston couldn't kick. Boston has had four showers to Lowell's one this summer. The last shower that was promised us went to Easton and it was a corker. It passed over Lowell firing a few shots at trees and houses but it didn't "set 'em."

Persons who were out in open carriages, on the water in open boats or on foot where shelter was far off, may look upon this little story as a rather flippant account of a serious matter, but the fact remains that we got just what we needed and if no other argument will satisfy then let the majority rule.

Nowhere perhaps in this vicinity did the rain disport or the wind play a greater mad-cap galloping chase than at Lakeview and it's the day's best bet that this week's laundry bill will be the largest for many moons and many a fond mother will bend a tired back over the wash tub. We pity the poor tired mothers, but we needed the rain and, besides, it's high time that the poor tired mother should oblige Sarah with her own shirt waists and iron her own white skirts when they happen to be drenched or drabbed around the bottom.

Quite a number were out in canoes and boats at Lakeview when the rain began and the shores of Lake Mascapa were lined with upturned boats and canoes beneath which fellows and their best girls sought shelter from the scorching rain. Two fellows who landed at Mountain Rock walked to Lakeview carrying their canoe over their heads for shelter.

At no time during the day was the heat so oppressive as during the early part of the forenoon and the night was delightfully cool, and an ideal one for sleep.

KILLED HERSELF

ARMY OFFICERS

Say That Balloons and Airships

WILL FIGURE IN NEXT WAR

Tests to Be Made at Fort Myer

WASHINGTON, July 20.—

In the next war that is fought the advance column will be made up of balloons and airships.

This is the belief freely expressed by army and navy officers here. For this particular reason, the army balloon tests which are to begin at Fort Myer next week will receive much attention in military circles. It is understood that several of the military attaches of the diplomatic corps will be at Fort Myer to take notes and report to their respective departments.

One of the most important results of the Fort Myer tests probably will be the establishment of an aerostatic corps in the navy. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry will be one of the interested spectators. It is understood that the American Airship and Balloon Corporation is building a dirigible balloon to be tried out before a naval board when complete.

Another enthusiast in the navy is Rear Admiral C. M. Chester, buyer of the equipment. Admiral Chester claims that aeronautics should be an adjunct of the navy because the mariner is specially fitted to deal with the conditions that are met with in the air. Lieut. Robert P. Henderson, chief engineer of the battleship Missouri, has made extensive experiments having for their object the application of the gyroscopic to flying machines. He is the support of Admiral Chester and other naval officers in recommending the establishment of a corps in the navy to be devoted to the application of aeronautics to naval warfare.

The advantage to be derived from such a corps, properly equipped, was clearly demonstrated in the Japanese-Russian war, when balloons were for the first time employed in naval defense. Without divulging the presence of the battleship, the balloons gave a radius of observation of sixty miles, instead of the ordinary range of twelve miles from the deck of the vessel. It also enables its officers to see objects below the surface of the water, such as mines and submarines, which cannot be located from the deck of a ship.

At Vladivostok, in the recent war, after a Russian destroyer and a cruiser had been damaged by Japanese mines, Admiral Yessen requested that a balloon detachment be formed to make observations around the harbor of Vladivostok. The results were so convincing that the Russian government equipped a fast passenger steamer as a floating depot for the balloon detachment. This ship, the Russ, is now a part of the Russian navy.

FROM ABROAD

ITEMS THAT ARE OF GENERAL INTEREST.

British India has 56,912 miles of telegraph and cable wires in operation. Since 1902-03 the annual earnings of the cables between India and Europe show profits of from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000.

The postal savings bank of India was established in 1852, in which year the depositors numbered 29,121 and the deposits totaled $322,243. In 1907—only twenty-five years later—the depositors numbered 1,159,229 and the deposits amounted to $49,223,352.

More money is invested in cane sugar than in any other industry except coal mining in Natal Colony, British South Africa, and it is only $300,000 short of the coal mining investment. The sugar investment is $7,300,000. The 1905 production was 23,457 short tons, valued at $1,122,000, and the 1907 production is estimated at 40,000 tons, worth $334,000, or about 10 per cent. of Louisiana's output. American sugar mills imported are more expensive than those made in England, says Consul Edwin S. Cunningham, of Durban, Natal.

Since the war the great Nissui Trading company of Japan has done an annual business of $100,000,000 with Europe, America, Australia and Asia. Scattered over the world the company has 16 offices and 120 employees. The company and its business are to be reorganized to suit the changed conditions.

Many of the Japanese porcelain factories are not paying expenses and production has been reduced by 25 to 40 per cent. In Tsu-nan-shan 28 of the 50 porcelain factories have suspended, owing to the decrease in American and Chinese imports.

Shinko, prefecture, Japan, is to have a $200,000 hydro-electric company, and a large paper material company—the latter being engaged in surveying the forests there for selling timber.

Prices are down for Japanese textiles, owing to depressed exports to the United States and Europe.

Open Air Meeting on Common Given Formidable Name in New York City

ADDRESS BY REV. FIRST VISIT SINCE MR. FERRIN 1860

Pleads for Elimination Pesky Things Made of the Saloon "Great White Way"

The Law and Order League held an open air meeting on the South common yesterday afternoon. The meeting opened with the doxology sung by the children of several Sunday schools with corner accompaniment. The meeting was held near the pond on the common and was begun at 4:30. There were about 200 present.

Rev. George F. Kennett presided and introduced as the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Allan C. Ferrin of the High Street Congregational church. He said in part:

"I have no hate whatever for the man who sells or for the man who buys and who drinks liquor. It is the business which I hate, which I hate as I do the devil. There has in recent years been a great anti-saloon movement, not only in United States, but in foreign countries. At the present time more than half the population of this land are living in no-license towns and states. Now it is a truth that we here in Lowell can have no clean streets, no clean politics, no clean government, until we have no saloons."

"What is the reason for this recent anti-saloon movement all over the country? The reason is because the people are getting sick of the way over the common the saloon has. The saloon is a hostile influence morally, socially and politically."

"I was told the other day that the tax rate of this city was greatly increased when the revenue from the liquor licenses was made unavailable by a vote of no-license. Now this is not so. That seems to be the opinion of several people, but let a few cold figures, taken from the reports most recently published, that of 1906-1907, prove the opposite. During these years the total license fees in this city amounted to $171,000. If we subtracted from this the state license of $40,000, paid to it by the city, we have left for the city $131,000. To balance this we have the cost of which licenses gave during the year to the police, estimated by the authorities to be $100,000. The cost made by license to the pauper department, the state tax and the county tax, respectively, $4,250, $10,750 and $10,000. There are four items of license expense add up to $23,950, to meet which we have the balance brought by license fees, $108,050, leaving a deficit of $43,300 to be paid out of the pockets of the inhabitants of this city. This is bad enough without taking into consideration the unspeakable want, wickedness and misery caused by the curse of drink. Should we not then eliminate the saloon?"

Ten days ago the worms spun cocoons, and on Thursday night most of them hatched into moths, lived a few hours and died. Some of the females who had not fulfilled their mission of laying a few millions, more or less, of eggs, still survived yesterday.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Ennomes Subsignaria, is the appalling name which the entomologists gave the snow-white, black-eyed moths that have invaded New York. Most of the great swarms that fluttered over the greater city on Thursday night had disappeared yesterday, but, as the scientists sagely remarked, there is no telling how many million eggs of the Ennomes Subsignaria have been deposited to hatch out next year into a pest of caterpillars.

The fact is that the white moth army, which left a number of survivors to flutter about the restaurants and other brilliantly lighted places last night, had not visited these parts since 1891, and every one of them ten days ago was—what do you suppose—just an ordinary "measuring worm" or "inch worm."

The "measuring worm," in 1891 devastated the shade trees of Brooklyn to such an extent that the horticultural society had a great deal to say about them.

Probably you have seen a "measuring worm," or "inch worm," as they are sometimes called. It takes a whole year for the eggs, laid in millions by the moths, to hatch into "measuring worms," and that is why next year may see a re-appearance of these pests.

The "measuring worm" is built somewhat on the principle of a dachshund, with its legs far apart—except that it has three legs far apart along its slender body and two forward almost under its chin. In order to walk without rubbing the skin all off its stomach it had to hump itself and bring the rear part almost up to its head. Then the head goes forward on its two legs and the worm humps itself to catch up.

On Thursday night most of them hatched into moths, lived a few hours and died. Some of the females who had not fulfilled their mission of laying a few millions, more or less, of eggs, still survived yesterday.

BOY DROWNED
DESERTED LAD WAS REARED BY COLORED FOLKS.

BOSTON, July 20.—Harold Coffin, a 12-year-old boy, born of white parents, but reared since he was three weeks old by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Delaney, a humble colored folk, who had loved him as their own child since his young mother deserted him, was drowned in the Charles river on the south side of the West Boston bridge yesterday morning, and now the police are striving to solve the mystery of his parentage.

Mrs. Delaney, who has a tidy but humble home on the second floor at 15 Blossom court, West End, mourns the white boy as sincerely as though he were of her own flesh and blood, she says.

Early yesterday morning Harold, against this foster mother's desire, started for the bathhouse clad only in overalls over his bathing trunk. He promised to return early and care for the baby while Mrs. Delaney went to church.

When the boy arrived at the bridge the bathhouses were not open and Harold and a couple of colored boys went to the river bank under the end of the bridge and disrobed. It was low tide and the current was strong when Harold threw off his overalls and jumped in. Instantly he was carried out into the stream and under the bridge. He made a heroic struggle and then realizing that he was lost he shouted to his comrades, "Tell mamma I am caught in the swift current, and I can't come back."

One of the brave little colored boys attempted to rescue the Coffin boy, but he was obliged to turn back, and when they looked again Harold had disappeared under the bridge and soon sank and was drowned.

At the time of the accident he was on the lake a few hundred yards from the shore of Pine island trying a new canoe in full view of his wife, who stood on the wharf at the island. ONE MAN DROWNED AND ANOTHER ESCAPED.

HUDSON, July 20.—W. Philip Brown, aged 35 years, said to be head bookkeeper for the firm of Blake & Knowles, Cambridge, was drowned in lake Boon while canoeing early yesterday morning.

Mr. Brown came to the lake Friday night to spend a few days with friends at the MacDonald cottage. Early yesterday morning he went out on the lake in a canoe with Frank E. Tripp, also of Cambridge. They had paddled about 50 yards to a point in front of The Only club when the canoe upset. Brown, who was unable to swim, sank immediately. Tripp cried out for help and swam ashore, falling in a faint as he reached the land.

WADDA NASSEF
SEIZED WITH CRAMPS AND WAS DROWNED.

NORTH ANDOVER, July 20.—Wadda Nasseeff, aged 19, living at 262 Oak street, Lawrence, was drowned in Stevens pond here yesterday afternoon. He was bathing and was seized with cramps. Several young women were with him, but they could not swim. They pushed a log out to him and he seized it. He was too weak to keep his hold until help came and he sank from the surface in the presence of his companions.

William A. Burns recovered the body by diving in 12 feet of water. An effort was made to revive the young man, but to no avail. The body was taken to his home. The young man's parents live in Syria.

Larochele, about the same age, was rescued with difficulty and was unconscious when brought ashore. Three other boys, Daniel Rowe, Henry McDonald and John Wallace, succeeded in reaching shore and were uninjured. The boys were trying to run the mill race when they were capsized.

WARWICK, R. I., July 20.—Michael Boyle, an orphan, 13 years old, employed at the St. Joseph's hospital, was drowned while bathing near the village yesterday afternoon. The body was recovered.

FOUR DROWNED
NEWS RECEIVED FROM NEW BEDFORD BUSINESS MAN.

NEW BEDFORD, July 20.—A telephone message was received in this city last night from a New Bedford business man, who is stopping near Wild Harbor on the opposite shore of Buzzards Bay that three girls and a man were drowned by the upsetting of a boat in which the party were sailing off Wild Harbor. The names of the people drowned were not known. The man said he was sailing within a mile of the scene in his boat, when he witnessed the accident. With half a dozen other boats also in the vicinity, he tried to reach the scene, but a strong wind made it impossible to work the boats near enough to the upturned boat to rescue any of the sunken party. The boat was later washed ashore near Nye's Neck, within a mile and a half of the upset.

AT MOHAIR CLUB

Candidate Frothingham Was a Guest

The members of the Mohair Cricket club held a very successful lawn party at Mohair park Saturday afternoon at the conclusion of the cricket game between the Mohairs and Zions, and despite the rainy weather everyone had a good time.

Supper was served immediately after the game and at 7:30 o'clock the Chelmsford Centre brass band gave an excellent concert.

At eight o'clock a musical and literary program was carried out.

Messrs. Osmond Long and Charles Howard gave a rattling duet, which highly pleased the audience; then each sang a solo, after which Mr. John Dalton pleased with songs. All were in excellent voice and the hearty reception of each demonstrated their popularity. The band played for dancing and the midway, which was under the able direction of Mr. Horace Faxon, was set in full blast.

Present during the evening were Col. A. M. Chabwick, City Solicitor J. J. Gilbert Hill and Louis A. Frothingham.

The committee in charge did everything in its power to make the affair the success which it was. The president, Walter Booth, was general manager, Vice President Charles Jenkins was his efficient assistant; David Hird, treasurer; Gilbert Hunt, secretary. Among the hustlers for the success were noted Messrs. Henry Reynolds, Ed. Nelson, Arthur Best, J. Harrison, B. Ingham, J. Camp, J. Harrison, J. Mitchell, I. Shaw, J. Barber, F. Jeanness, J. Walmsley, Stanley Marshall, C. Minter, J. Campos, D. Hird, J. Marshall, J. Haldwaite, G. Haldwaite, W. Campbell, J. Sinebottom, J. Barrett and Alex Williams.

FROM PANAMA
THOMAS WATERWORTH ON VISIT TO LOWELL.

Thomas Waterworth, a former resident of this city, and who for five years acted as superintendent of the Lowell company, is back from the canal zone and is visiting friends in this city. Mr. Waterworth is official gardener at the town of Empire and speaks very interestingly of life and conditions about Panama.

He states that many people exaggerate the conditions of the affairs on the isthmus, especially those who tell how that unless a man wants to make it a bad place to live in, he manages to stand the climate very well.

Mr. Waterworth's daughter, Mrs. Jeanne Bowen, is the only American dressmaker in the canal zone and Mr. Waterworth says she is doing remarkably well.

WOLF TONES
WILL HOLD PICNIC ON LABOR DAY.

At the regular meeting of the Wolfe Four guards yesterday it was voted to hold the annual picnic at Nabasset grove, on Labor day. Various committees were appointed to make arrangements and the members expect to make the affair the "best ever."

THE ENCAMPMENT HISTORIC QUEBEC

Of Spanish War Vets in Boston
PRES. ROOSEVELT AND ADM. DEWEY
Among the Guests Who Are Expected

Department Commander Edward J. Gihon of the Massachusetts department, United Spanish War Veterans, and his committee in charge of the fifth national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans in Boston, made much progress last week.

This encampment will be the first one of the Spanish-American war veterans which can be considered a reunion of the men of the army and navy who fought against Spain. The encampments in the past have simply been delegate bodies without the reunion feature. Many camps in the middle and western states have eluded their intention of coming in large numbers with their bands.

Department Commander Gihon, Comrade Curtis Guild, Jr., governor of the state, and others have been hustling to bring together many well-known guests, and that they have done their work well is evidenced by the fact that among the guests will be President Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey, Rear Admiral Schley, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood and Capt. Richmond P. Hobson.

In the big parade on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 2, all the distinguished guests and comrades of the order will take part with a big detachment of regulars from the forts in Boston harbor, marines and sailors from the navy yard and a large complement of the Massachusetts volunteer militia.

Following the parade there will be reunions of the veterans of the First, Second, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth and Ninth regiments, Mass. infantry, U. S. V. and the naval brigade at places to be chosen later by the committees on reunions. For those veterans who were not enlisted in the Massachusetts organizations, there will be a baked bean supper to be served in the South armory by the ladies' auxiliaries.

All the sessions of the encampment will be held in Faneuil hall, and will be presided over by Commander-in-Chief Walter Scott Hale.

Among the plans for entertaining the guests the committees have arranged for an ocean trip on Tuesday afternoon. A steamer has been chartered to take the delegates and comrades to Nantasket beach, where all the dignitaries will be taken in and a shore dinner served.

In the evening there will be a big banquet attended by the delegates to the convention, the commander-in-chief and staff and well known military and civic guests.

On Thursday, the last day of the encampment, there will be no day of sight-seeing trips and the encampment will close with a grand ball to be given by the ladies' auxiliary at the Cambridge armory. This will be the event of the encampment and will rival the big ball given in the armory last winter in honor of the National Guard Association.

The program for the encampment is as follows:
Tuesday, Sept. 1.—A. M., opening of encampment in Faneuil hall. P. M., excursion of all Spanish war veterans to Nantasket in special boat. Trip to Paragon park, shore dinner and initiation of the Order of the Serpent. Banquet to Commander-in-Chief W. S. Hale and staff. Delegates to the encampment and invited guests.

Wednesday, Sept. 2.—A. M., convention in Faneuil hall; 2 p. m., grand parade, survivors of the Maine, Hobson crew that cut the cable at Cienfuegos. Order of the Serpent and delegates, the parade to be escorted by a strong military detail; 5 p. m., reunion of the 1st, 2d, 5th, 6th, 8th and 9th Mass. regts. I. S. V. and Mass. naval brigade; 8 p. m., baked bean supper at the South armory to be given by ladies' auxiliary; 8 p. m., monster campfire which will be addressed by President Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey, Rear Admiral Schley, Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Gov. Guild and other distinguished veterans.

Thursday, Sept. 3.—A. M., auto and sight-seeing trips to the historic places in Boston and vicinity. Convention and initiation of officers. Grand ball in the evening.

CHELMSFORD
Battery C of Lawrence passed through Chelmsford, Saturday afternoon, on its way to South Framingham and received a wetting in the shower while between Lowell and Chelmsford.

Luncheon was served the men near Golden Cove, and as the line passed through the square about five o'clock, the supply at the watering trough was heavily drawn upon for the horses. The men went into camp for the night at Rose's field, about midway between Chelmsford and Carlisle. The battery will again pass through Chelmsford on its return to Lawrence next Saturday.

THE ENCAMPMENT HISTORIC QUEBEC

To Celebrate Its Tercentenary This Week

In a review of the events of modern history in connection with the exploration and settlement of Canada, with its varied struggles, and the Tercentenary which is to be observed in Quebec, this week, the Boston Herald says:

Viewed either as an assembly of representative men of the British empire, of the United States and of France, or as a recognition of an older colony's relative antiquity and wealth by the mother land and by the other colonies, or as a convincing proof of the death of ancient feuds and growing amity between nations and peoples, the tercentenary celebration bids fair to be memorable. Words no doubt will be spoken which will depict all these important elements of the situation, words that will leave no sting in France or among the Canadian French, and yet which will reveal unmistakably the essential loyalty of the Dominion to the British crown. The patriotism of the occasion will mark the eclipse of that hope, so long cherished by Goldwin Smith, that the United States and Canada might merge. Whatever chance of this union there may have been passed a decade ago with treatment of Canada by the United States, which forced the Dominion in self-respect to greater assertion of independence.

This has been accentuated during the more recent era of national growth in wealth. A rising national self-consciousness, born of entirely natural and legitimate ambitions and ideals, political and economic, and disclosed in recent negotiations with the mother country as well as with the republic on the south, is now patent to any observer.

The Canada which the heir apparent to the British throne and the earl of Crewe, secretary of state for the colonies, visit this summer, is a very different minded colony from that visited by Edward VII. when, as prince of Wales, he saw it. It is a colony conscious of success in great enterprises.

BILLERICA
"Old Home Day" was observed at the North Billerica Baptist church with special services that were largely attended by members of the church and their friends. In the morning the pastor, Rev. Chester H. Howe spoke on "Love, the Basis of Motive." There was special singing at the morning session also, selections being rendered by Mrs. F. L. Roberts of Lowell.

At the evening worship, praise service was given, and a number of old songs sung. Rev. Mr. Howe gave interesting incidents in connection with the history of the hymns. Selections were also given by the mandolin club. Tree Warden Dolan laid off a gang of men Saturday who have been employed in the work of exterminating the gypsy and brown-tail moths.

THE DIRECTOIRE GOWN
Will Be Shown For Another Week

We shall continue the exhibition of the Directoire Gown during the present week.

The hundreds that thronged our Women's Department on Saturday, made careful examination impossible. This week you'll have a better opportunity to examine it and write us your opinion.

What influence will the Directoire Style exert on American Fashions?

What features are liable to be adopted and what discarded?

We'll pay $10 for the best expression on this subject.

$5 for the next best.

$2.50 for the Third best.

The commercial value of thoughts expressed will be given more weight than the literary merit of the article.

Answers should be contained in not over 100 words and should be sent in sealed envelopes addressed to the store and marked "DIRECTOIRE."

All answers must be received by closing time (9.30 p. m.) July 27, and the result will be announced shortly thereafter.

Let's have your thoughts on the Directoire Gown. They may be worth $10 to you.

SMOKE NUISANCE

IT IS WITH A GOOD DEAL OF SATISFACTION WE NOTE THAT THE LOWELL ELECTRIC LIGHTING COMPANY HAS CLOSED A CONTRACT FOR A MECHANICAL STOKER THAT WILL PROBABLY TAKE THAT COMPANY OUT OF THE LIST OF THOSE CHARGED WITH MAINTAINING A SMOKE NUISANCE. IF THE APPLIANCE ATTAINS THE DESIRED RESULT, IT WILL DOUBTLESS BE ADOPTED BY OTHER COMPANIES AS A MEANS OF OVERCOMING THE DISAGREEABLE SMOKE NUISANCE.

WHAT WILL REMEDY THE SMOKE NUISANCE IN ONE CITY WILL REMEDY IT IN ANOTHER.

THE CITY OF PITTSBURG HAS BECOME NOTORIOUS FOR ITS SMOKE NUISANCE, BUT ALREADY STEPS HAVE BEEN TAKEN THAT WILL EVENTUALLY COMPLETELY OVERCOME THE NUISANCE IN THAT CITY. IF SUCH SATISFACTORY RESULTS CAN BE OBTAINED WHERE THE NUISANCE WAS SO BAD, SURELY THE MODERATE NUISANCE COMPLAINED OF IN LOWELL CAN BE READILY OVERCOME BY THE SAME MEANS. WHAT ARE THE MEANS APPLIED IN PITTSBURG? FIRST, MECHANICAL STOKERS; SECOND, STEAM JETS; THIRD, FURNACES OF SPECIAL DESIGN; FOURTH, SMOKELESS FUEL.

ALTHOUGH THE WORK HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS ONLY ABOUT A YEAR IN PITTSBURG, ENOUGH HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED TO GIVE ASSURANCE THAT FINALLY THE ATMOSPHERE WILL BE CLEARED AND THE PEOPLE WILL HAVE THE NOVEL PRIVILEGE OF BREATHING FRESH AIR AND OF ENJOYING THE SUNLIGHT UNDIMMED BY CLOUDS OF DENSE SMOKE. A REMARKABLE FEATURE OF THE SITUATION IS, THAT THE OFFENDERS ARE NOW AS ANXIOUS AS THE AUTHORITIES TO ELIMINATE THE SMOKE NUISANCE, HAVING BEEN THOROUGHLY CONVINCED THAT THE SAVING IN FUEL MORE THAN PAYS FOR MAKING THE CHANGE.

WHAT IS NEEDED IS EDUCATION. BUT NOTHING WILL BE DONE UNTIL THE SMOKE NUISANCE LAW BE ADOPTED SO THAT ANY LONG CONTINUED ISSUE OF DENSE SMOKE FROM A CHIMNEY WILL COME UNDER THE PROHIBITIVE CLAUSE OF THE LAW AND LEAVE THE PROPRIETORS OF THE PLANT LIABLE TO PROSECUTION. THAT IS THE FIRST STEP BECAUSE THERE ARE SOME PEOPLE SO SELFISH THAT THEY WILL NEVER DO ANYTHING TO ABATE THE NUISANCE UNLESS UNDER COMPELSION.

THAT IS WHY THE CITY COUNCIL OF LOWELL SHOULD ADOPT THE LAW AND LET THESE PEOPLE UNDERSTAND THAT THERE IS NO NEED WHATSOEVER FOR THIS SMOKE NUISANCE AND THAT IT IS, MOREOVER, A PROOF OF POOR MANAGEMENT, AND INEXCUSABLE WASTE OF FUEL.

CHOLERA INFANTUM VICTIMS

WHILE THE PRICE OF MILK IS GOING UP IT IS TO BE ASSUMED THAT THE QUALITY WILL BE KEPT UP TO THE STANDARD. TO SELL ADULTERATED OR DILUTED MILK IN HOT WEATHER IS MORE LIKELY TO DO HARM THAN IN THE WINTER TIME.

LAST WEEK THERE WERE TWELVE DEATHS IN THIS CITY FROM CHOLERA INFANTUM AND THE NUMBER OF DEATHS FROM THAT DISEASE THIS WEEK MAY BE STILL GREATER.

ALL THESE DEATHS ARE PREVENTABLE BY PROPER CARE AND TREATMENT. THE PARENTS, HOWEVER, ARE LEFT TO THEMSELVES, AND MANY OF THEM, IGNORANT OF THE DANGER, ALLOW THE DISEASE TO CONTINUE WITHOUT CALLING A DOCTOR UNTIL TOO LATE.

HAD THEY BEEN PROVIDED WITH PRINTED INSTRUCTIONS AS TO WHAT THEY SHOULD DO FOR THE CHILDREN WHEN THE FIRST SYMPTOMS OF CHOLERA INFANTUM APPEAR, MANY OF THE LITTLE ONES MIGHT HAVE BEEN SAVED AND THEIR PARENTS THUS SAVED THE SORROW OF SEEING THE LITTLE WAIFS CUT OFF BY THIS DISEASE.

OF NO DISEASE IS IT MORE TRUE THAN OF CHOLERA INFANTUM THAT PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE, AND PREVENTION IS QUITE POSSIBLE IN THE VAST MAJORITY OF CASES.

WE DO NOT SEE WHY ALDERMAN BAILEY, SHOULD BE CRITICIZED FOR A NONPARTISAN STANDPOINT.

Peter F. Collier has purchased a three-acre site on the Ocean Drive, Newport, near the bathhouse entrance to the Goose Pond club, where this fall he will begin to erect a rustic bungalow residence which in construction work alone will cost $25,000.
The grounds will include a large fountain. The servants' hall will be 40 feet long. The house will stand on the summit of land and have a commanding view of the city, country, and sea. The construction will be of red brick in Colonial architecture, and so far as possible everything will be fireproof. The garage will be well away from the house, which will be three stories high and about 150 feet long.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

NO MORE EXPLOSIVES.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Influenced thereby by the fact that ten deaths resulted in the city from the late Fourth of July celebration, the city council of Cleveland, by the vote of 21 to 7, has just passed an ordinance which prohibits any further celebration of the Fourth on the part of individuals involving the use of fireworks or firearms. If there is to be any celebrating of that kind, which has been left undetermined, it will be done by the city itself and it will take the form of an official display in the public parks.

UNRESTRAINED MOTOR BOAT.

New Bedford Mercury: The motor boat has been without any laws in particular to control it. It is a strange fact that a steam launch of the smallest type must carry a licensed engineer, a licensed pilot and be subject to inspection. A motor yacht of the largest size need have neither licensed pilot or engineer and is subject to no inspection whatever. It comes about through the circumstance that the laws were made for large steamships and descended in the smaller pleasure craft, which were a later development. The motor propelled boat started in the launch class and its development was not regarded. Now the craft have multiplied and are without restraint.

BRYAN ON THE PRESIDENCY.

Johnstown Democrat: Speaking of Bryan's article on "Conception of the Presidency" the Pittsburg Dispatch, a staunch republican paper, says:

One of the best passages in the article is a reiteration of the sentiment of an editorial printed in The Commonwealth a half dozen years ago declaring that the vice president should have more consideration than has ever been accorded him, that he should be ex-officio a member of the cabinet, and that in all circumstances he should be asked for his advice and thus be in a position to take the place of the president intelligently and fearlessly in the event of the death or disability of the latter.

That sentiment ought to meet with general approval. There is no wisdom in making a cabinet position higher than that of the vice-presidency, especially in view of the fact as Bryan says, that the former may succeed to the presidency.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Capt. Samuel B. Gibson died at his home at Bay Shore, L. I., Friday. Capt. Gibson some years ago was quite prominent as a yacht skipper. He sailed the American sloop Mischief, owned by the late John H. Bush, when that yacht defended the America's cup against the Canadian challenger, Surlana, in 1881. When Sir Richard Sutton came here with the Genesta in 1885, the Princeton, Capt. Gibson had charge of that boat. The Puritan defeated the Princeton in the trials and was chosen to defend the cup. Capt. Gibson acted as pilot on board the challenger, Genesta, Galatea and Thistle when those yachts tried to capture the trophy in 1885, 1886 and 1887. Capt. Gibson was 65 years old. He retired several years ago.

Ralph Olmsted Williams, Yale '61, died at Grace Hospital, New Haven, Saturday, of blood poisoning. He was about 50 years of age and a native of Florida, N. Y. After leaving college he was for some time connected with the New York Publishing house of Hall & Williams, and was secretary of the civil service commission of New York City for several years. During his Yale college days he was on the Literary Magazine. He assisted in the compilation of Webster's dictionary under the direction of the late President Porter of Yale. Mr. Williams was the author of several books and was a contributor to the Review of Reviews. For several years past he had been librarian and curator of the New Haven Colony Historical society. He leaves a brother in San Francisco.

Charles Webb Howard of San Francisco, a Forty-niner and for many years president of the Spring Valley Water company, died a few days ago in San Rafael. Mr. Howard had been one of the big men of San Francisco for years. He landed there a poor boy and died very wealthy. For thirty years before the earthquake he was president of the Spring Valley company, which controls all the city water supply. Shafter Howard, the playwright, is his son.

In accordance with a very ancient custom the governor and both branches of the Massachusetts legislature assembled on Tuesday, July 14th, for the proclamation of new statutes passed during the year. Seventeen acts, which arrived only on Monday morning, were presented for the king's approval. The king's approval was given by reading a summary of the provisions, first in English and then in the Mass language. The day was a general holiday in the island and the weather was very fine. There was a great gathering of interested spectators, the majority of whom were visitors. During the subsequent proceedings of the 72nd year it was stated that during the past year no intoxicant had been used by the inmates of the Mass workhouse.

COMMUNION SUNDAY

OBSERVED BY Y. M. C. I. YESTERDAY MORNING.

The members of the Y. M. C. I. received communion in a body at 7.30 o'clock, mass in the Immaculate Conception church yesterday. The attendance was large. Mass was sung by Rev. John McRory, O. M. I. The choir, which was composed of members of the institute, was under the direction of John J. McCaffrey. Solos were rendered by James E. Donnelly, Jas. McNulty and Ed. Jennings. Miss Mary Allen sang the organ. After the mass the members proceeded to the hall in Stackpole street, where breakfast was served, after which the following program was carried out: Piano solo, Wm. T. Gilmore; song, Frank McCarrin; reading, Jas. Cunningham; Henry Curry, Jas. McNulty, John Murray, John McCaffrey; piano solo, Wm. Gilmore. President Kelly in a few well-chosen remarks presented Rev. Fr. Reynolds, O. M. I., who was received with loud applause. He spoke to the members of the successful work done during the last six months and congratulated them on the large number present.

The committee in charge of the breakfast was Martin Welch, chairman; James E. Donnelly, James McRory, Thomas Allen, Ed. Cox, Frank Lang, Jas. H. Carroll, Charles Burns, John Daily and John Tansey. The success of the literary program is due to the efficient work of President Wm. Kelly, Al. Conney, John Cole, Joseph Kelley, John Cleary and Martin Gannon.

THE GOLDEN PEN

Sermon by Rev. George B. Dean

"The Golden Pen" was the subject of Rev. George B. Dean's sermon at St. Paul's M. E. church last night. He spoke upon the value of the pen in history, when guided by an educated brain and the assistance of a letter man, to a brother who needs encouragement. He said, in part:

"When Gen. Lee gave up his sword at Appomattox, this act did not close the Civil war, for then two great problems had to be worked out. One was the real emancipation of the slaves and raising them from the level to which they had fallen, and the other was to persuade the Southern slave owners that their Northern brothers had no ill feeling against them. This could be accomplished not by the sword, but by the pen. The message must go out through books, newspapers and magazines, and this was again shown the power of the pen, backed by an educated brain.

"The Fourth of July is celebrated with noise, parades and fireworks, and no doubt this is enjoyable for the children, even if distasteful to many of the older patriots. It is when the boy in school reads history, the stories of Lexington, Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, and Portkown, it is then that he is moved to go forth to fight and, if need be, die for his country. Here again the pen makes patriotism.

"It is now summer time, and many of your friends are away at the mountains or elsewhere. Can you not do them up by sending them a letter of good will? If you can, you will find that your pen is transmitted from a steel pen to golden.

"A spoken word is like a flower. A written word is like a seed, planted in a man's heart, where it will grow and bear fruit. Never cut a man's head off with a pen, for that is easily done. Instead plant something in his heart by a good word.

"When you go home tonight, can you not devote a holy hour to sending a message to someone who needs it? If you can do this you will find that you have indeed a golden pen. Truly, the pen is mightier than the sword."

WELCOMES TAFT

But Bryan Wants Him to Go Further

FAIRVIEW, LINCOLN, Neb., July 20.—The statement of W. H. Taft at Hot Springs, Va., Saturday, that the Republican National committee would not accept any contributions from corporations in his campaign, was viewed here with more than ordinary interest. Mr. Bryan gave it his especial attention. In fact, so impressed was he with the announcement that he broke his usual silence and dictated the following statement:

"We welcome him to this advanced ground and beg him to go further and announce that all individual contributions above a reasonable minimum will be made known before the election."

Late last night Frank S. Monnet, formerly republican attorney general of Ohio, who conducted the prosecution in that state against the Standard Oil company, and later was employed by the Interstate commerce commission to gather material upon which to base the government's suits, arrived and held a lengthy conference with Mr. Bryan. Mr. Monnet was actively supporting Mr. Bryan in Ohio in the campaign.

Mr. Monnet said that he was authorized by Mr. Bryan to state that because of the government's dereliction in prosecuting the alleged wool combine, whose headquarters he says is in Ohio, Mr. Bryan had announced that if elected to the presidency he would at once put all the machinery of the government at work to destroy any combine that might exist.

"It will be his policy," said Mr. Monnet, "to destroy the wool monopoly that prevents competition as promptly as the courts and himself can do it. The American Woolen company had destroyed, so far as the producer is concerned, the entire benefit supposed to inure from the protection of wool."

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Monnet agreed that the Sherman anti-trust law as it stands today is sufficient for any anti-trust action necessary.

THE CHIPPEWA BODILY INJURY

Probably Will Be a Total Loss

NEW YORK, July 20.—While the Chippewa, of the Clyde line, was pounding great holes in her hull, on Montank Point life saving station, early yesterday, 24 men were taken from her by a camping party, the members of which had made a fourteen mile dash in automobiles to aid the rescue.

Three weeks ago the Chippewa, bound from Charleston to Boston with a cargo of lumber and animals, went onto the rocks in a heavy blow. Ordinary means failed to dislodge her, and pumps and other appliances were installed to float her. All the preliminary work had been done and it had been planned to haul the Chippewa from the rocks Saturday, when a heavy sea began to run and by the middle of the afternoon the ship was pounding on the sharp rocks in an alarming way. The twenty-four men aboard some of the crew, and some of the wrecking crew, believed their lives were in danger and sent signals of distress. Jumping into three automobiles, a camping party, which had seen the signals, made a fast run to the life saving station, fourteen miles distant. They found Captain Hedges and placed themselves under his command. The life line gun was brought into action and four lines shot seaward before one caught in the rigging. Over this line the men on the pounding vessel were brought ashore, one by one, in the Chippewa buoy. It is feared the Chippewa will be a total loss. She was valued at about $500,000. The animals aboard, including alligators and ostriches, were not taken off.

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

In offering "The Captain's Mate" at Lakeview theatre this week, the Adam Good company has made a wise selection, for the play is of a kind that banishes all thought of hot weather and kindred discomforts by its enterprising story and amusing comedy situations and characters. Those who remember the phenomenal success achieved by the Adam Good company on its first tour of New England, some four seasons ago, may remember that of all the plays in the repertoire, "The Captain's Mate" was the most interesting and amusing. It has force, plenty of melodramatic situations and climaxes, sensation, "thrills," and broad comedy, all cleverly intermingled by the art hand of the dramatist, and it is sure to please the patrons of Lakeview theatre next week. Some good scenic effects will be shown, there will be some clever specialties introduced between acts, and nothing will be left undone that can in any way enhance the value of the production.

STAR THEATRE

This week a Lowell boy will be the headliner at the Star. He is Clarence, the slack wire performer, and he does some wonderful tricks. In balancing, he is always a favorite in his home town and draws large houses. Ralph Curry will sing for the first three days "Just to Remind You," a pretty and catchy sentimental ballad. J. C. Bell will sing "Down Where the Green River Flows," a rollicking song in the waltz time that is brand new. The pictures are equal to those seen last week which were the talk of the town. On next Tuesday night the amateurs will again entertain. There are several new names down on the list and this week bids fair to be the best yet. The theatre is always crowded on amateur night and it is necessary to come early to get a good seat.

BODY CUT IN TWO

Strange Murder Case Troubles Officials of Hackensack, N. J.

NEW YORK, July 19.—A strange murder case developed yesterday when officials of Hackensack, N. J., examined the body of Mrs. Otella Eberhard, which was found early yesterday lying on the tracks of the New York, Susquehanna and Western railway near Coalberg, N. J., and discovered bullet wounds. A passing train had cut the body in two. Otella Eberhard, a daughter of the dead woman, was wounded three times by bullets and dragged herself a mile to an isolated farm house. The police are hunting for August Eberhard, a nephew of the murdered woman, believing that he may know something of the crime. Mrs. Eberhard and her daughter arrived from Vienna last Thursday on the invitation of August Eberhard. The Eberhard girl states that there was an understanding that August was to marry her. Saturday, Mrs. Eberhard says, she and her mother were invited by August to go to Rockville Park, in New Jersey, and that they wandered around there until evening. At the Coalberg coal pockets the girl says she saw a flash between two cars and heard a revolver shot, followed by a series of shots. She started to run and felt that she was hit. Her cousin, she says, ran up to her and urged her to hurry away. After running with her a few steps, he turned back. Then, she states, she heard more pistol shots. Consciousness left her then. She had been struck three times by bullets, none of which, however, caused serious wounds. She saw her mother fall, she says, when the first shots were fired. Recovering consciousness, shortly afterward, she found her way to a farm house, whose inmates bound her wounds and escorted her into Hackensack yesterday. By that time the coroner was working on her mother's case. The wounded girl was taken to the police station, where her story threw light on several phases of the affair.

Miss Eberhard says her mother had $2200 in United States currency and $300 in German notes, when they left for their excursion. The $200 was missing when the body was found. The German money was untouched.

The police say that Eberhard, too, may have been murdered, and his body disposed of. Meanwhile, however, they are making every effort to locate him if he is alive.

The larger part of the distance is over good roads but as several big cities were on the route the schedule provided for slow time at many points.

FIFTH ST. CHURCH

Sermon on Jealousy by the Pastor

The evil of "The Green Eyed Monster" was Rev. Forrester A. McDonald's sermon topic at the Fifth Street Baptist church, Sunday evening. Speaking with reference to the jealousy of King Saul for David, he said: "We see this same thing shown in our life today. There are thousands and thousands of men about us who wish to have more and more and who engage in business at a neck-and-neck pace in order to beat out their brothers who are engaged in business. Not because they need more, for they may have ten times more than they can ever really make good use of, but because they want to be considered more successful than other men. Then, too, there are women who are driving their husbands as with a goad, driving them on and on, that they may have more luxury, dress with greater extravagance and shine greater than do some other women. Am I not right? Do you not know of such things? Are there not men, who left to their own ideas of life, would live differently? Is not the spirit of this monster instilled into their hearts by their wives, anxious to make names for themselves as magnificent entertainers?

"Another form of jealousy is that which impels a person to seek to steal away the good name of another. That is the kind which means that a name is lost, while the thief of it is not enriched by it. Jealousy is all about us, it threatens us all of the time, and we see evidences of its work in the administration of our governmental affairs.

"The only antidote to this is to live the honest, happy life of contentment. And to do this we must love God and respect his mandates. There is no happiness where jealousy possesses the heart, where covetousness and envy are tainting the mind. Put them aside and have an abiding love in God, and this green-eyed monster will disappear."

JIMMY GARDNER

Offered Three Matches in New York

Jimmy Gardner is in great demand in New York and has a chance to take part in three big bouts if he wishes. James Buckley, the manager of the Starkey club, is in this section and is anxious to get Jimmy to sign for matches to be pulled off within the next two months and Gardner looks with favor upon the offer. It is likely that Gardner's opponents will be Willie and Harry Lewis and Unk Russell. These are the men now talked of by the New York manager, but Gardner does not restrict him in any way in picking out his antagonists. Gardner is doing some training each day and is in fine condition. He spends some time chopping wood and also goes out on the road for a run and then does some boxing with his brother George who also is rounding into shape again and expects to make his reappearance on the Coast next winter. Jimmy and George will leave for Fresno some time in September and the former's first bout will be on Admission day, one of the best dates of the year. George will also figure in some bouts on the coast.

SUMMITS OF LIFE

Sermon by Rev. Dr. Wallace

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Need of Excellence of Character

At the First Baptist church yesterday the pastor, Dr. Wallace, preached in the morning on "The Saving Summits of Life," and in the evening on "The Wholesome Valleys of Life."

The text of the morning sermon was taken from Solomon's song IV:5, "Come with me from Lebanon, my bride, with me from Lebanon look from the top of Amanus, from the top of Senir, and Hermon, from the lions' dens, from the mountains of the leopards." By way of introduction the meaning of the words was given as they lie in this exquisite oriental song. Being in fear of a forced marriage to the king, the beautiful young bride seems to hear in a vision her lover, whom she loves and to whom she is pledged, calling to her from his northern home. He will carry her away from the splendors and dangers of the city, from the sin and slavery of the harem, and with mountain fastnesses of Lebanon and Hermon she shall be safe. Making a parable of this, the preacher said that the summits of life were sometimes terrible because of their loneliness. What Robertson of Brighton said of the loneliness of Jesus Christ was true, in some measure, of every person of exalted station, or character, or vocation. Sam Walter Foss says truly, "There are souls like stars that dwell apart in a fellowless firmament." Abraham Lincoln was such a soul. Others of less note, some of them our neighbors, know something of the solitude of the summits of life.

These summits are necessary. Without the summits there would be no rivers and no springs. Without the summits in the world of architecture cities would present a dead level of intolerable dullness. It would be a weary world in which no human throat could sing better than every other human throat and no tongue was more eloquent than every other human tongue; a world in which among the great swarming multitude of men there was no great singer, or speaker, or thinker, or great, as in nature, as in architecture, so in achievement and character the summits are needed.

There are summits from which services are performed which could not be performed except on the summits. Only by being lifted up could Christ become the Saviour. The cross is a figure which has a fact. Only after he had found a summit of life did John Knox speak with a voice which all Scotland heard. Charles E. Hughes, from a mountain peak of political righteousness and personal courage won his fight the other day against race-track gambling in the Empire state. The pagan foes of Israel believed that Jehovah was the god of the hills. They were right. If men would be joined with him in might exploits let them go up the steep hill-sides. Tolstoi, in his passionate protest last week against the hangings now common in Russia for political offences, spoke from a summit of courage and self-devotion. The man who in the spirit of service imperils his life for the saving of others; the woman who endures her life to rescue of unsheltered and endangered children; the sufferer who in rare fortitude and patience bears a triumphant testimony to the sustaining grace of God; the young man who, amidst impure and godless companions, lives a pure, reverent, high-minded life—all these are performing a service which could not be performed on the lower levels.

There comes inspiration from the summits of life. High places, tall mountains, or cathedrals, or mountain peaks, have a peculiar fascination. They call to men to climb. And the appeal of the hills of gravel and stone has its counterpart in the appeal of excellence in sports or work or character. It is the expert swimmer whom the young man watches and imitates, not the man who stands near the shore and splashes. It is the clean-hearted, unselfish manly youth whose example sways his fellows, not the villainous, selfish, cowardly poltroon. More than man realizes they are rebuked, admonished, inspired by the lives and deeds of those who walk with God on the high places of character and motive.

The summits which a man occasionally attains give him confidence to attempt other ascents. The young men who have dared to enter the Olympic games now in progress in London, that they may compete against the best athletes of the world, are young men who have been winners in other competitions. He who has won a race dares to run again. He who has passed the tests of the lower grades at school has courage to attempt the higher grades. Ask the stripling David how he dared to go on against the Philistine strong man, Goliath. He said: "I have killed a lion and a bear."

Ask the life-saver how he dared to leap into the river to rescue the drowning child, and his reply is: "I have long been at home in the water." And it is thus with all our moral and spiritual tasks and life. This man dares to believe that he can face in the world a clean, upright life, because he knows there is uncleanness in the world, and dishonesty and baseness. Does he not see the steaming marshes and the miasmatic swamps? Yes, but he does not mean to go that way. He knows a path above the mire. He found it in an hour of struggle. He found it again in an hour of resistance or achievement. Since then he has had not only a taste for the high places of life, but a confidence that he can find them and hold them.

These summits of life, where the air is pure, from which men can look down upon the dangers, escape, inaccessible to low and creeping and base things, these heights of Lebanon and Hermon are saving summits to all who love them, who value exaltedness of character, who aspire to noble achievement, who gradually endeavor to shake themselves free from the baser impulses of their nature and to repeat continually their higher thoughts and desires. These are the men whom Jesus Christ takes apart by themselves, as He took Peter and Andrew, and John, and they behold His glory as they abide in the manifested presence of God.

LIES ON LEDGE

THREE MASTED SCHOONER HAROLD O. BEECHER GROUND.

ROCKPORT, July 20.—The three masted schooner Harold O. Beecher, New York, for Rockport with coal, grounded while making her berth in Piggon cove harbor early today, lying amidships on a ledge in the centre of the harbor, the existence of which had not been known heretofore. The schooner is in a dangerous position as she grounded within two hours of high tide and with the recession of the tide it is likely that she may be forced over on her side.

When possible lighters will be brought alongside to relieve her of the cargo of 400 tons of coal.

NIGHT EDITION

STILL AT LARGE

Patrick Morgan Who Assaulted His Wife Not Yet Captured

Mrs. Morgan is Recovering at the State Hospital—Assault Not So Serious As Was at First Reported—It is Thought That Morgan Has "Skipped Out"

Patrick Morgan, who assaulted his wife at their home in Fairlawn Friday morning and afterwards made his escape, is still at large, the combined efforts of the police of Tewksbury and of neighboring cities and towns having been fruitless.

It is thought that after the assault Morgan made his way to this city and after spending a few hours here returned to his home by a roundabout route and succeeded in procuring a change of clothing after which he went to some other city.

Inasmuch as the assault has proven to be of a rather trivial nature when compared with the sensational color given it in the first place, Morgan may decide to return to his home and trust to the clemency of the court.

Mrs. Morgan, who is at the state hospital where she was taken shortly after the assault, is recovering from her wounds and she will be able to return to her home during the present week.

POSSE OF MEN

Searching for Assailant of Mrs. Josiah Lowe

Woman Was Struck on Head With Club—Daughter Found Her Lying in Pool of Blood—Men Who Are Looking for the Assailant Are Armed With Pistols and Old War Rifles

ESSEX, July 20.—A posse of 100 men, headed by Chief Gilbert, are scouring the outskirts of this town in search of the suspicious man whom it is believed assaulted Mrs. Josiah Lowe at her home, Malden avenue, today. Mrs. Lowe is lying at her home in a serious condition as the result of being struck over the head several times with a club.

Mrs. Lowe was working about the house today when a man jumped into the kitchen and struck her over the head. She screamed for help. Her daughter, Mrs. Charles Harding, was just leaving the house in a team for the railroad station when hearing her mother's shrieks she ran back into the house where she found her lying on the kitchen floor in a pool of blood.

Before she reached her mother's side a man darted out the front door and disappeared in the woods toward Hamilton.

Mr. Low was working in the fields when the assault occurred. He immediately informed Chief of Police Gilbert. Neighbors of the Lows had heard Mrs. Low's cries and quite a crowd had gathered outside of the Low farm when the chief arrived.

A posse was organized at once and armed with pistols, old war rifles and other firearms the procession moved down the road. It was joined on the way by other farmers and when the town had been canvassed over a hundred men were in line.

Neighbors who say they saw the man leaving the house state that he was short, thick-set, smooth face, wore a dark cap and a gray shirt. The townspeople who saw him say that they have seen him about the place before.

FULL CONFESSION

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 20.—William Walker, absconding treasurer of the New Britain savings bank, whose extradition from Mexico was finally achieved, departed for New Britain a prisoner in the custody of E. F. Egan, chief of the police of that city, today. Before leaving this city Walker freely talked of the crime to which he has confessed and while denying that he had looted the bank of $365,000, as has been alleged, he refused to give an estimate of his shortage, saying:

"I have already made a statement to the officials of the bank and it remains for them to say whether or not this information is to be made public. I do not care to make any statement relative to the accusation that I lost large sums of the bank's money to a gang of wire-tappers or other swindlers, but I will state that I never received a dollar of the missing sum."

"My sole wish and desire in leaving New Britain has been to make restitution to the bank. I fled because I knew my ability as a money maker and up to the last I have felt confident that I could repay every dollar through the mining interests I have acquired since reaching Mexico."

It is claimed by the officers who have Walker in custody that the prisoner has determined to make a full confession upon his return to New Britain.

AMERICANS WIN

Make Fine Showing in Today's Olympic Game

LONDON, July 20.—An almost entirely new set of athletes takes possession today of the dressing rooms of the stadium for the Olympic games. The weight throwers, cyclists and distance runners having gone through their part of the program last week, have either taken their departure or with the exception of those entered for the Marathon race have fallen to the plane of mere spectators.

America's sprinters and jumpers who came up from Brighton yesterday and whose features are expected frequently to cause the stars and stripes to flutter at the peak of the official flag pole were out in the arena early, this being one of their busiest days. They remained enthusiastic but the unfortunate weather prevented their reaching that condition at which they had aimed. Better weather was promised by the forecasters for this week, a prediction this morning which however seemed unlikely of fulfillment as showers were already falling when the archery contest, continental style, and the wrestling bouts commenced.

During the morning the semi-finals of the 100 metres swim for which Charles M. Daniels, New York A. C., Harry J. Hubner, Illinois A. C. and L. G. Rich, Brookline Swimming Club, had qualified, was swam and the first heat of the high diving event for which George W. Gaidzik, Chicago, was drawn was carried out. The final of the 100 metres swim will be pulled off this afternoon, this event with the standing broad jump, being the only final on the program but the heats of the 100 metres flat, of which there are seventeen; those of the 500 metres run, of which are eight and six heats of the 40 metres hurdles will keep things humming during the afternoon. Although the morning's attractions were few the cheering of the crowds was already borne fruit and if the weather improves there probably will be better attendances from now on.

The Americans did well in the morning's events, both Daniels and Rich, the American swimmers, qualifying for the final 100 metres swim. Harry J. Hubner, Illinois A. C. had a slight lead when he was half way in the first heat and looked like a winner but he steered a bad course and DeFalhamy and Julia, representing Hungary and Sweden respectively passed him.

In the catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout George N. Melner, National Turnverein, New York, after drawing a bye in the first round quickly defeated Sprenger, United Kingdom in the second round. Traher Murphy says that while the weather prevented him from doing all he would have liked to do in the way of training the sprinters and jumpers, the American athletes to a man are cheerful and hopeful.

The final in the archery contest, continental style, at fifty metres, was won by Grizett with 163 points. Volant was second with 256 points. They are Frenchmen.

The weather cleared up as the day advanced and it got quite warm. This was welcomed by the visiting competitors, particularly by the Americans and Canadians who have been shivering in the cold and dampness of the past week.

Sweden, like America, complained about the way in which the draws for the 300 metres run were conducted, two of their best men having been placed together in the sixth heat. With the two countries protesting against this drawing method it is probable that another shuffle will be made. J. P. Halstead, New York A. C. starling in the third heat in which no other American will run and leaving M. W. Sheppard, Irish-American A. C. the second heat, one of the Swedes going in the second heat in place of Halstead.

CONTEMPT CHARGE

Gompers, Morrison and Mitchell Summoned to Court

WASHINGTON, July 20.—President Sept. 8 next, a charge of contempt in Gompers, Secretary Morrison and John Mitchell of the American Federation of Labor today were cited to answer on away suggested to the father, through an interpreter, that the children be sent to a home, but the father, who speaks no English, objected, stating that if the little ones were taken to a home they would learn to speak English and would forget their own language and later when he hopes to be able to support them he would be unable to converse with them any more. Captain Greenaway then sought the assistance of Supt. Courtney and the latter notified the state board of charity, who will look after the children. Speaking of the case, Captain Greenaway said: "This is only one of many cases that come to our attention but we are handicapped by lack of funds. It matters not to us what the religion or nationality of the sufferers may be if they are in need we will consider it our duty to assist them."

Since the announcement of William W. Dennett of the High school that he is not a candidate for the position of milk inspector the friends of James J. Brown of the board of charity have insisted on the use of his name as a candidate for the position. The position is regarded by these men as not a question of party politics and they believe that the fact that Mr. Brown was appointed on the board of charities by Ex-Mayor Casey should not influence Mayor Furber against him. Mr. Brown is not only a practical chemist, having received his diploma from the state board 12 years ago, and working at the business continuously ever since. He is an expert both in qualitative and quantitative chemistry and since the new laws relative to pure food, etc. came into vogue has taken a special course in food and drug analyses. The public generally believe that politics should not enter into the appointment to such an important position, while they also are unanimous in the opinion that the position should go only to a practical chemist. Messrs. Dennett and Brown are the only chemists who have been mentioned for the position.

TO BURN HOUSE

Daring Plot Brought to Light in Cambridge

Discovery Was Made by a Milkman—Hallways and Floors Were Smeared With Kerosene and Heads of Matches Sprinkled Around—Police are at Work on the Case

CAMBRIDGE, July 20.—A plan to burn a three family apartment house more elaborate the police today say than has come to light in recent years was discovered at 1637 Cambridge street. The incendiary apparently aimed to secure the firing of the house and at the same time avoid suspicion. The hallway of the house, the mats, floor and even the wall paper and wooden walls had been smeared with kerosene and the surface over which anyone entering the house must walk had been well sprinkled with the heads of snap matches. The plan had been apparently to make it impossible for anyone to pass through the hall without igniting some of the matchheads in which case nothing could have prevented a fire as all the surroundings were drenched with oil. A milkman discovered the trap and notified the police who are conducting an investigation.

6 O'CLOCK

A LIFE SENTENCE

Can be Imposed on Walker if He is Found Guilty

HARTFORD, July 20.—When William F. Walker, the New Britain bank robber, arrives here probably Friday of this week he will be immediately arraigned under the indictment which was issued after his flight. This contains nineteen counts but it is possible that Walker will only be called to plead to thirteen of them. The other six relate to his embezzlement of the funds of the Connecticut Baptist convention of which he was treasurer.

Five counts in the indictment allege embezzlement from the New Britain savings bank and eight charge forgery and the false endorsement of notes. If he pleads guilty to them or is found so after a trial the sentence can be made to exceed the rest of his natural life.

Today States Attorney Albion received a despatch from Sup't. of State Police Officer Egan, who is escorting Walker home, announcing his arrival in Los Angeles. Despatches from Egan will be received daily so that by Wednesday he will be able to tell on just what day and hour Walker will be arraigned. The criminal court is being kept open until July 24 to accommodate him.

LITTLE WANDERERS

Boys Picked up by Police Officer Lived in Danvers

Tired, footsore, hungry and thinking of "Home, Sweet Home," and the pies that mother used to make, Harold, George and Ernest Town, aged 13, 12 and 11 years respectively, arrived in Lowell early this morning after tramping all the day from Danvers. They were sorry looking individuals and when one of the patrolmen on the early morning shift saw the three youngsters, who were attired in khaki trousers and light coats, trudging through the street he decided that they had left their homes. After questioning the trio he learned that the peregrinators hailed from Danvers and then sent them to the police station.

Upon arriving at the police station they were put through a rigid cross-examination and after the name of their father had been learned the local police communicated with the police of Danvers and about 11 o'clock this morning Mr. Town arrived in Lowell and called at the police station.

Mr. Town informed Deputy Welch that he was nearly frantic last night and this morning, wondering what had happened to the boys and where they were. The telephonic communication that the boys were safe in Lowell removed a great deal of anxiety and he hastened to Lowell on the next train.

The story as told by the boys is in substance as follows: The youngest of the trio, Ernest, spent last summer at Marshfield, Vt., and told his two brothers what a fine place it was and what an excellent time he had had. Prior to the closing of the school term this summer the boys prevailed upon their father to allow them to go to Marshfield, and according to the story, he said he would.

With about half the vacation over, however, and no sign of father sending the boys away, the three got together and decided to tramp it a couple of hundred miles tramp not fearing them in the least.

So yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, accompanied by a pretty light brown collie dog they started for northern Vermont and they took some food with them, but they found that walking creates an appetite and long before they reached Lowell their provisions were exhausted.

When placed in the detention room this morning they begged to be allowed to go out with their dog, but the officer in charge, saying that the dog belonged in the stable, and the canine was separated from his friends.

After the father had arrived in this city and Deputy Welch had given the boys a good lecture they were allowed to start for Danvers. It was just as they were passing through the door into the street that one of the boys turned around and running back said: "Say, I want my dog." The dog was released from the rope which connected him with a staple in the stable and that the animal was glad to see the boys was evidenced by the manner in which he jumped about them.

The last son of the Town family and the faithful dog they were passing through Market street in search of a restaurant where the famished boys could get something to eat and probably also where the dog could secure a bone.

FOR PLAYGROUNDS

An Association to Be Formed in Lowell

NEW BALL GROUNDS PROPOSED

On the West Side of Fort Hill Park

Supt. Whitte of the park commission is anxious to build a ball ground for the boys near the pines on the west side of Fort Hill.

The South common, on the Fourth of July, netted the general treasury $1136 as against $1035 last year and Mr. Whitte says that if the city would allow him the money taken in for lots on the common he would build the ball ground at Fort Hill.

"The boys need a ball ground there," he said, "and the west side of the hill would be an ideal place for it. They could sit on the side hill and watch the game just as they do on the South common. A ball ground there would cost about $800.

A move is on foot for the organization of a playground association in this city and the matter will receive the attention of the park commissioners at their next meeting. The playground proposition is becoming very popular. The movement is a national one and the national association has flooded the country with literature that is worth the reading. It tells of what playground associations have done where they have been established long enough to exploit the virtue of such associations. Cities where associations are working are being benefited to such an extent that their names to prominent citizens subscribe their names to articles bearing playgrounds.

The playground association will meet in New York early in September and Mayor Farnham, as has already been stated, is in receipt of a letter asking him to name a delegation to attend the convention. The matter will be taken at the next meeting of the board which will be within a few days.

The park commissioners have instructed their superintendent, Mr. Whitte, to make a list of the places in Lowell most desirable for park purposes, and Mr. Whitte will prepare a list to submit at the next meeting.

Sheridan was third with 10 feet, 7 inches.

Few Americans went to the hurdles as most of them had just run the 50 metres flat and the others had to reserve themselves for the other heats of the same event which for a season best known to the amateur athletes is called a relay race after the 50 metre hurdle. The American committee did not like that arrangement as it practically assured the United Kingdom success in the hurdles but it was useless to object as a protest in all probability would have been overruled.

THE AMERICANS

IN THE RACES THEY ARE BEST SUITED FOR.

LONDON, July 20.—The events of the Olympic games for which the American athletes are suited were reached this afternoon and the boys who had been waiting at Brighton for their opportunity to try to win the championship in field sports for America are now having their findings.

Charles M. Daniels of the New York A. C. won the 100 metres flat race. He was the only American to qualify. He was unable to get his team mate, L. G. Koch, Brooklyn swimming club, into the place. In the standing broad jump both Ray C. Ewry of the New York A. C. and Martin J. Sheridan of the Irish-American A. C. reached the goal final which will be pulled off later in the afternoon.

George Gaskin of the Chicago A. A. won his heat in the high diving and when it came to the 100 metres flat race N. J. Cartmell, U. of Penna., Coughan, Irish-American A. C., W. May, U. of Illinois, L. B. Stevens, Yale university, William F. Hamilton, Chicago A. A., H. J. Huff, Chicago A. A., Lawson Robertson, Irish-American A. C., D. R. Sherman, Dartmouth, and J. A. Walker, South Africa; Duncan and Morion, the United Kingdom; Bob Kerr of Canada, Bob Stark and Roche of the United Kingdom.

BRYAN WANTS FUNDS

He Asks Newspapers to Collect Money From Their Subscribers

FAIRVIEW, Neb., July 20.—Mr. Bryan today issued the following: "I wish every democratic paper would begin the collection of a fund from its subscribers. There are very few democrats who could not afford to make a small contribution and the people will never be able to control the government until they take on themselves the burden of supplying campaign funds. As long as a few men furnish the money to finance a campaign the men will exert an undue influence upon the government.

"It seems that we have reached the end of corporate contributions and this is a step in advance but the individuals who control these favor-seeking corporations may still dominate politics by furnishing the means of war. The democratic party has struck a blow at this system by limiting contributions to not more than $1000 and providing for publicity. The republican party has so far refused to join with us on this proposition but public sentiment may yet compel it to do so. I have no doubt that the democratic party will receive contributions from more individuals than ever contributed to any campaign and there is no reason why the entire sum necessary should not be supplied by contributions from the masses. If every democratic paper will take the matter up and lend a helping hand we will soon have money enough in the treasury to provide for legitimate campaign work and that is all we want."

DARING BURGLARY

In Coffey's Store, Suffolk Street Last Night

Burglars Entered by Removing Iron Screen for Window—Money Drawer Hacked Off With Cleaver and Meat Axe and Taken Away

A bold burglary took place during the night at the provision store of Mr. Humphrey Coffey, in Suffolk street, between Market and Fenwick streets, and the burglars undoubtedly were not only familiar with the interior of the store but also with the movements of the officer on the beat.

They effected an entrance by removing the screws that held the lower part of an iron screen on a side window in an alley just around the corner of Suffolk street. By pulling out the over end of the screen they crawled under it and through the open window into the store. They then took a meat hatchet and a large cleaver and proceeded to the office in the rear of the store broke off the money drawer which contained about $2 in small change and carried the entire drawer away with them. They went through the other drawers in the store but did not attempt to open the safe in which a large amount of money was secreted.

In the money drawer taken away was a bunch of keys including the keys to the inner drawers of the safe. These they took away and Mr. Coffey found himself unable to get at the contents of the safe drawers this morning. The burglars then went through the ice chests and found a large stock of canned goods, etc., evidently having a lunch and taking some food away with them. The floor of the office was littered with burned matches showing that the marauders were in the store some little time. They left the store by a rear door which they opened from the inside.

FOREMAN'S VIEW

In the case of all except that of Foreman Connell the testimony was relatively unimportant. They called. It was understood, because they had happened to be at the scene of the wreck right after it occurred. In his testimony Foreman Connell stated that he had examined the track the morning of the wreck and that the lines were in their usual condition.

To those who heard the coroner's questions it appeared that he was seeking evidence to determine whether the accident was due to condition of the tracks or whether the cars or the motors were at fault.

Foreman Connell in response to further questions testified that the ties between the station and the bridge were ones put in not long ago. The bridge was built in 1905 but the ties on it he thought were old ones. He did not recollect when they had been replaced if at all since the bridge was built.

Both Drs. Clark, the medical examiner, and Dr. Piatti, testified that Miss Armstrong's back and neck were broken by the crushing down of her body in the wreck. Messrs. Burns and Kelly told of measuring the rails. In front of the Greenwich station the rails to be spread one-eighth of an inch. At the end of the station the spreading amounted to one quarter of an inch. Half way between the station and the bridge the rails had spread half an inch and ten feet from where the cars hit the rails the amount of spreading was an inch and a quarter. The station is 200 feet from the bridge.

LATEST DEMOCRATIC LEADERS

Expect to Carry Both Ohio and Indiana

FAIRVIEW, LINCOLN, Neb., July 20.—According to leaders who have conferred with Mr. Bryan, the ability of the democratic party to secure the negro vote in Ohio will depend largely upon the attitude of Senator Foraker. So long as he remains outside the republican breastworks at least as regards Mr. Taft, the democrats are assured of a large negro support in that state. Should, however, Senator Foraker become reconciled and lend his support to Taft, it is conceded that there is little probability of enrolling a sufficient number of negro votes in the cause of democracy to materially affect the result. Former Attorney General Frank S. Monnett of Columbus and E. H. Moore of Youngstown, who was chairman of the last democratic state convention in Ohio, are today speeding home after a conference with

Mr. Bryan last night with instructions to size up the situation and take every advantage of the Foraker-Taft feud. The first feeling of hopefulness with regard to Illinois is not gaining ground and while that state will be carefully looked after it has been practically determined that the main efforts in the middle west will be directed toward Indiana and Ohio where the democratic leaders are counting on wresting the majority vote from the republican column. For the last several days visitors to Fairview have kept Mr. Bryan informed of the result of polls made by them of passengers aboard trans-continental trains. It is said that the figures presented were highly gratifying to Mr. Bryan. It is settled that the chairmanship of the national committee will not go to a southern man because of the attitude of the Southerners toward the negro. Although Mr. Bryan thinks highly of Ollie James of Kentucky, the disfranchisement of the negro made his appointment out of the question.

A FORECLOSURE ATHLETIC CLUB

Of $350,000 Mortgage Organized by Local Young Men Has Been Ordered

BOSTON, July 20.—A final step towards the settlement of the legal proceedings connected with the receivership of the Milford Plank Granite Co. was made today in the United States circuit court when Justice Colt ordered a foreclosure on the $350,000 mortgage unless the amount now due in principal and interest, $340,395, is paid up by August Fourth of this city. The court, however, allows a lease of the Granite Brothers in order that they may continue to supply the Pennsylvania, New York and Long Island railroad for their new station in New York city. The guaranties of the company have been in the hands of a receiver, Ralph Stewart of Boston since 1905. In case of a foreclosure the court states that no offer less than $100,000 will be accepted as a bid.

A number of well known local young men met yesterday afternoon in a temporary meeting place, kindly offered for the occasion by one of the young men interested in the formation of the association. The object of the meeting was to organize an Irish Athletic association and were very successful. A nice fund was procured from the members present and considerable business was transacted. A hurling team was organized under the auspices of the association. This team is composed of the men who as a picked-up team on the Fourth of July played against a South Boston crack team at Oak Island grove, and it was admitted by the ten thousand people who witnessed the match to be one of the cleanest and best exhibitions of hurling ever seen at the grove. A football team has also been organized and several other features will be added to the association. Various committees were appointed, namely, committees on procuring and drawing up a suitable set of rules to govern the association and also a committee on procuring permanent quarters. Officers were also elected and some hot contests were in order. Denis McDowell was elected president of the association; Thomas Mooney, recording secretary; John Talley, treasurer; Joe O'Connell and Dan Sheedy were elected captain and vice captain of the hurling team; James McMahon captain of the football team; Joe Fox vice captain. The work of organizing the teams and also the association will be completed on next Thursday evening which will be the next meeting of the association. The name of the organization is the Young Ireland's Athletic association.

One of them is said to have been an employee of the New York Central railroad. Detectives are seeking him. District Attorney O'Brien declines to make public the contents of the letters. CITY OF QUEBEC

Has Taken on a Carnival Aspect

QUEBEC, July 20.—Although the Prince of Wales does not arrive until Wednesday the week's festivities commemorating the founding of Quebec began in earnest today with the appearance in the streets of mounted heralds, armed men of the watch in the quaint costumes of the days of Champlain announcing the events of the celebration. The city has taken on a carnival aspect and besides 15,000 red coats, Highlanders and bluejackets some 5000 of the population are arrayed in costumes of the middle ages, representing the phases of Quebec's history from the time of Cartier and Champlain down to the battle on the Plains of Abraham. Large parties of Troquois and Ojibwa Indians have been brought here to lend reality to the scenes depicting the struggles of the French with the Indians. The battleship New Hampshire is steaming slowly up the St. Lawrence and is expected soon to join the fleets of British and French warships. She would reach here today unless slowed down to arrive at the same time as Vice President Fairbanks, the official representative of the United States.

WE WANT A COMPETENT MILK INSPECTOR—

OFFICE OF MILK INSPECTOR

Not a mere politician who knows nothing of chemistry, who will sit around his office and do nothing—

While unprincipled milkmen sell adulterated milk to consumers—

And broken-hearted mothers weep over the loss of their beloved little ones killed by bad milk.

OUR MILK SUPPLY THE WM. DOUGLAS Y.M.C.A. RUNNERS

Acting Inspector Dennett Speaks of It

Asked today as to the quality of Lowell's milk at the present time, William W. Dennett, the chemist who has been analyzing the milk since Mr. Irish took charge of the office, or since the time that the late Major Allen was obliged to quit work because of illness, said: "The milk is very good but there is a high proportion of fats as compared with the solids that are not fat. Ordinarily this would give the impression that water was being added to the milk, but I think that is not the fact. It may be due to fodder or to the condition of the cow."

"Have the farmers been asked to explain it?" queried the reporter. "Yes, they have," replied Mr. Dennett, "and they lay it to the very hot weather. They say that the cows lie under the trees during the day and are kept busy licking flies. They say the cows do not eat much and drink a great deal. They also claim that the pastures are dry and do not afford the ordinary amount of nourishment and they have to feed a lot of grain to keep the cows in a condition to give milk that is up to the standard."

Mr. Dennett, in reply to the reporter's questions, said that the department covers five or six milkmen a day. The collector always takes two samples in order to give both parties, the milkman and the law, a fair show. Besides the samples that are collected, milkmen are constantly bringing samples to the chemist to learn if the milk is up to the standard. They may have reason to believe that the milk is not standing up to the mark and they prefer to remedy it rather than go to court.

Not Considered in a Dangerous Position

VINEYARD HAVEN, July 20.—The tugs Mercury and Orion arrived alongside the six masted schooner William L. Douglas, which stranded on Lucas Shoal half way down Vineyard Sound yesterday about dawn and today word was received from Boston that additional wrecking apparatus was on the way to the assistance of the vessel. The Douglas was not considered to be in a dangerous position as the shoal is of sand and is well sheltered by the highlands of the island from heavy southerly gales. Captain Arthur Crowley of the Coastwise Transportation company, the owners of the Douglas, came down from Boston on the Mercury and went on board the schooner. It was thought today that after part of the cargo of coal had been lighted an effort would be made to haul the Douglas off the shoals by heavy anchors and tackles and the assistance of the tugs.

GIVEN A CHANCE

Judge Pickman Favored a Youthful Drunkard

Parole Man From State Farm Captured by Officer Rourke and Sent Back—Man From Dracut Inn Said He Would Like to Kill the Officer

James Keene, a young man attired in knee pants and just able to look over the top of the cage in police court was arraigned this morning on a complaint charging him with being a common drunkard. A couple of police officers testified to seeing the young man drunk on various occasions while several other witnesses testified as to his drunken habits. According to the testimony offered, Keene chums around with a gang of rowdies in the vicinity of Coburn street and Lakeview avenue who make life miserable for the residents of that section. Patrolman Quinn testified to having seen Keene drunk eight times within a month. Benjamin Holden saw him drunk four or five times in a couple of months and Thompson Avery said Keene had been drunk three or four times in three weeks. A Mrs. Salmon said she saw the prisoner drunk on a number of occasions and Patrolman Corcoran said Keene had been drunk twice since the 27th of June. Keene acknowledged that he got drunk once in a while and chummed around with a rather tough gang. After the testimony in the case had been offered Judge Pickman turning to the young man said: "Now it rests with you whether you go to jail for five or six months or enjoy freedom. There are several things in your favor. You work and you have been here but once before and your appearance is in your favor. Now I am going to give you a chance and see if you will appreciate it and try and make a man of yourself." The court then imposed a sentence of five months in jail and suspended the sentence.

There were two first offenders who were fined $5 each and ten were released without appearing in court.

LAPORTE WAS FINED.

George G. Laporte who spoke broken English and had great difficulty in keeping from mixing the two languages pleaded not guilty of being drunk. Special Officer William H. Cullinane of Dracut testified that he met Laporte outside the Lakeside Inn near the entrance to Willow Dale last night and put him on a car and sent him home. A little later, however, the man returned, and his condition was such as to warrant his being placed under arrest. Laporte was then given a chance to testify in his own behalf and said: "Oh, no, judge, I was not drunk. I work for Mr. Nolan and take one drink, two drinks, probably three drinks and more, but no drunk. I had a little few drink, but didn't count the number of glasses. Before I have been arrested then, but now I don't drink half I do before." Then turning to Officer Cullinane, Laporte said: "You will be suffer for this Mr. Fat Policeman, I was so mad last night that I lark kill you." Laporte was fined $5 and appealed, but later withdrew his appeal.

SENT BACK TO STATE FARM.

Michael Burke was charged with being drunk and also threatening his wife, Margaret Burke. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness, but said he was not guilty of threatening. Burke is a parole man from the state farm and when it was found that he had been breaking the provisions of his parole and also bothering his wife, the officers were notified to be on the lookout for him. Saturday, Patrolman Michael Rourke saw him alighting from a car in South Lowell and started after him. Burke saw the officer and took to his heels, and in a short time he was in the thick of the woods. The patrolman followed him, however, and succeeded in placing him under arrest as a suspicious person, not then knowing what kind of a character he was. Mrs. Burke testified that her husband got out of the state farm three weeks ago and had threatened to kill her. Burke was found guilty of being drunk and will be returned to the state farm, the case of threatening being filed.

WAS FINED $10.

Natt. W. Pillsbury pleaded guilty to indecent conduct yesterday on a train belonging to the Boston & Maine R. R., between Manchester and Lowell. He was fined $10 which he paid.

FOR DRUNKENNESS.

Michael Dillon pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and assault and battery on Joseph Korsak. Inasmuch as the latter did not care to press the complaint the prisoner was fined $3 for drunkenness while the assault case was filed. J. Joseph O'Connor appeared for the government. John J. O'Hare, a third offender, received a suspended sentence of two months in jail. Edwin Flynn, drunkenness, was placed on probation. Patrick Donlon, a second offender, was fined $10.

BOY DROWNED
DESERTED LAD WAS REARED BY COLORED FOLKS.

BOSTON, July 20.—Harold Coffin, a 15-year-old boy, born of white parents, but reared since he was three weeks old by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Delaney, humble colored folk who had loved him as their own child since his young mother deserted him, was drowned in the Charles river on the south side of the West Boston bridge yesterday morning, and now the police are striving to solve the mystery of his parentage.

Mrs. Delaney, who has a tidy but humble home on the second floor at 15 Blossom court, West End, mourns the white boy as sincerely as though he were of her own flesh and blood, she says.

Early yesterday morning Harold, against this foster mother's desire, started for the bathhouse clad only in overalls over his bathing trunks. He promised to return early and care for the baby while Mrs. Delaney went to church.

When the boy arrived at the bridge the bathhouses were not open and Harold and a couple of colored boys went to the river bank under the end of the bridge and disrobed. It was low tide and the current was strong when Harold threw off his overalls and jumped in. Instantly he was carried out into the stream and under the bridge. He made a heroic struggle and then realizing that he was lost he shouted to his comrades, "Toll namm, I am caught in the swift current, and I can't come back."

One of the brave little colored boys attempted to rescue the Coffin boy, but he was obliged to turn back, and when they looked again Harold had

At the time of the accident he was on the lake a few hundred yards from the shore of Pine Island trying a new canoe in full view of his wife, who stood on the wharf at the island. AT MOHAIR CLUB
Candidate Frothingham Was a Guest

The members of the Mohair Cricket club held a very successful lawn party at Mohair park Saturday afternoon at the conclusion of the cricket game between the Mohairs and Zions, and despite the rainy weather everyone had a good time.

Supper was served immediately after the game and at 7:30 o'clock the Chelmsford Centre brass band gave an excellent concert.

At eight o'clock a musical and literary program was carried out.

Messrs. Osmond Long and Charles Howard gave a rattling duet, which highly pleased the audience; then each sang a solo, after which Mr. John Dalton pleased with songs. All were in excellent voice and the hearty reception of each demonstrated their popularity.

The band played a lively dancing and the Midway, which was under the able directorship of Mr. Horace Faxon, was set in full blast.

Present during the evening were Col. A. M. Chadwick, City Solicitor J. J. Gilbert Hill and Louis A. Frothingham.

Thomas Waterworth, a former resident of this city, and who for five years acted as superintendent of the Lowell cemetery, is back from the canal zone and is visiting friends in this city. Mr. Waterworth is official gardener at the town of Empire and speaks very interestingly of life and conditions about Panama.

He states that many people exaggerate the conditions of the affairs on the isthmus, especially those who tell how bad a place it is. Mr. Waterworth states that unless a man wants to make it a bad place to live in, he manages to stand the climate very well.

Mr. Waterworth's daughter, Mrs. Jeanie Bowen, is the only American dressmaker in the canal zone and Mr. Waterworth says she is doing remarkably well.

THE ENCAMPMENT

Of Spanish War Vets in Boston

PRES. ROOSEVELT AND ADM. DEWEY

Among the Guests Who Are Expected

Department Commander Edward J. Gihon of the Massachusetts department, United Spanish War Veterans, and his committee in charge of the fifth national encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans in Boston, made much progress last week.

This encampment will be the first one of the Spanish-American war veterans which can be considered a reunion of the men of the army and navy who fought against Spain. The encampments in the past have simply been delegate bodies without the reunion feature. Many camps in the middle and western states have signified their intention of coming in large numbers with their bands.

Department Commander Gihon, Comrade Curtis Guild, Jr., governor of the state, and others have been hustling to bring together many well-known guests, and that they have done their work well is evidenced by the fact that among the guests will be President Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey, Rear Admiral Schley, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood and Capt. Richmond P. Hobson.

In the big parade on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 2, all the distinguished guests and comrades of the order will take part with a big detachment of regulars from the forts in Boston harbor, marines and sailors from the navy yard and a large complement of the Massachusetts volunteer militia.

Following the parade there will be reunions of the veterans of the First, Second, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth and Ninth regiments, Mass. Infantry, U. S. V., and the naval brigade at places to be chosen later by the committees on reunions. For those veterans who were not enlisted in the Massachusetts organizations, there will be a baked bean supper to be served in the South armory by the ladies' auxiliaries.

All the sessions of the encampment will be held in Faneuil hall, and will be presided over by Commander-in-Chief Walter Scott Hale.

Among the plans for entertaining the guests, the committee have arranged for an ocean trip on Tuesday afternoon. A steamer has been chartered to take the delegates and comrades to Nantasket beach, where all the sights will be taken in and a shore dinner served.

In the evening there will be a big banquet attended by the delegates to the convention, the commander-in-chief and staff and well known military and civic guests.

On Thursday, the last day of the encampment, there will be no end of sight-seeing trips and the encampment will close with a grand ball to be given by the ladies' auxiliary at the Cambridge armory.

This will be the event of the encampment and will rival the big ball given in the armory last winter in honor of the National Guard Association.

The program for the encampment is as follows:

Tuesday, Sept. 1.—A. M., opening of encampment in Faneuil hall. P. M., excursion of all Spanish war veterans to Nantasket in special boat. Trip to Paragon mark, shore dinner and initiation of the Order of the Serpent. Banquet to Commander-in-Chief W. S. Hale and staff, delegates to the encampment and invited guests.

Wednesday, Sept. 2.—A. M., convention in Faneuil hall; 2 p. m., grand parade, survivors of the Maine, Hobson crew that put the cable at Cienfuegos, Order of the Serpent and delegates, the parade to be escorted by a strong military detail; 5 p. m., reunion of the 1st, 2d, 5th, 6th, 8th and 9th Mass. regt. U. S. V. and Mass. naval brigade; 8 p. m., baked bean supper at the South armory to be given by ladies' auxiliary; 8 p. m., monster campfire which will be addressed by President Roosevelt, Admiral Dewey, Rear Admiral Schley, Capt. Richmond P. Hobson, Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, Gov. Guild and other distinguished veterans.

Thursday, Sept. 3.—A. M., auto and sight-seeing trips to the historic places in Boston and vicinity. Convention and installation of officers. Grand ball in the evening.

CHELMSFORD
Battery C of Lawrence passed through Chelmsford, Saturday afternoon, on its way to South Framingham and received a wetting in the shower while between Lowell and Chelmsford.

Luncheon was served the men near Golden Cove, and as the line passed through the square about five o'clock, the supply of the watering trough was heavily drawn upon for the horses.

The men went into camp for the night at Rose's field, about midway between Chelmsford and Carlisle. The battery will again pass through Chelmsford on its return to Lawrence next Saturday.

HISTORIC QUEBEC

To Celebrate Its Tercentenary This Week

In a review of the events of modern history in connection with the exploration and settlement of Canada, with its varied struggles, and the Tercentenary which is to be observed in Quebec, this week, the Boston Herald says:—

"Viewed either as an assembly of representative men of the British empire, of the United States and of France, or as a recognition of an older colony's relative antiquity and wealth by the mother land and by the other colonies, or as convincing proof of the death of ancient feuds and growing amity between nations and peoples, the tercentenary celebration bids fair to be memorable. Words no doubt will be spoken which will depict all these important elements of the situation, words that will leave no sting in France or among the Canadian French, and yet which will reveal unmistakably the essential loyalty of the Dominion to the British crown. The patriotism of the occasion will mark the eclipse of that hope, so long cherished by Goldwin Smith, that the United States and Canada might merge. Whatever chance of this union there may have been passed a decade ago with treatment of Canada by the United States, which forced the Dominion in self-respect to greater assertion of independence.

This has been accentuated during the more recent era of national growth and consciousness, born of entirely natural and legitimate ambitions and ideals, political and economic, and disclosed in recent negotiations with the mother country as well as with the republic on the south, is now patent to any observer.

The Canada which the heir apparent to the British throne and the earl of Crew, secretary of state for the colonies, visit this summer, is a very different minded colony from that visited by Edward VII., when, as prince of Wales, he saw it. It is a colony conscious of success in great enterprises, a colony interested in protecting its own manufacturers and farmers, a colony insistent on negotiating its own trade treaties with competitors, and determined to decide for itself who shall inhabit it and on what terms. Possibly these convictions will find utterance next week—privately if not publicly. But it will be strange if the thought of today does not find expression through poet and orator as well as that scenes of the past by recalled through the co-operation of artists, historians and a master of pageantry.

Mr. Frank Lascelles has been invited from England to supervise the pageants in which 400 persons will be marshalled. With due pomp representatives of the British, French and American navies, and men from the British army will suitably commemorate the events of war which make Quebec historic. One of the permanent results of the celebration, it is hoped, will be worthy preservation for public uses of the Dominion's battlefields. The larger and more important aspects of the celebration, however, have to do with present peace and not with past war, with international fraternity and not with selfish nationalism, with Canada's future and not with her past; and there are bound to be declarations of purpose by Canadian and by visiting officials of much significance to those who keep watch over British imperial evolution and international affairs.

The United States has received many Canadians into its body politic and now is sending back to Canada many well-to-do and prosperous emigrants. It is bound to the Dominion by ties of many kinds, and it will watch with peculiar interest and sympathy next week's celebration."

BILLERICA
"Old Home Day" was observed at the North Billerica Baptist church with special services that were largely attended by members of the church and their friends. In the morning the pastor, Rev. Chester H. Howe spoke on "Love, the Highest Motive." There was special singing at the morning session also, selections being rendered by Mrs. F. L. Roberts of Lowell.

At the evening worship, praise service was given, and a number of old songs sung. Rev. Mr. Howe gave interesting incidents in connection with the history of the hymns. Selections were also given by the mandolin club.

Free Warden Dolan laid off a gang of men Saturday, who have been employed in the work of exterminating the gypsy and brown-tail moths.

QUEBEC CELEBRATES

Prince of Wales is Expected Next Wednesday

QUEBEC, July 20.—The quaint old city is in a flutter of anticipation over the arrival of the Prince of Wales, who will sail into the harbor next Wednesday aboard the British battleship the Indomitable, to inaugurate the 30th anniversary of the founding of Quebec by the French navigator Champlain.

The coming of the future king of England is a significant event in which all Canada is deeply interested, for aside from the pageantry of a royal visit, it is a notable expression of the strong bonds now existing between the imperial government and its American colony.

Great masses of troops are being assembled here to do honor to the future monarch and to take part in the plain exercises. The harbor already presents a stirring naval spectacle, with the British battleships Exmouth, Albemarle, Russell and Duane, and the cruisers Venus and Arrogant, the French battleships Leon Gambetta and Admiral Aube, which will soon be joined by the United States battleship New Hampshire and later by the Prince of Wales' squadron, the Indomitable, Minotaur and other ships, the whole presenting an assemblage of the latest Dreadnaught type of three foremost naval nations.

Although the founding of Quebec is the primary purpose of the celebration, the coming of the Prince of Wales, Field Marshal Lord Roberts, the Duke of Norfolk, and many other notable personages, is proving of far greater interest than the historical exercises. The prince was in Canada before, when a young naval officer, commanding the gunboat Thrush. But this is his first visit since he reached his exalted rank of Prince of Wales. During his earlier visits, he was most simple and democratic in his habits, strolling about the streets of Halifax and Quebec and mingling with the groups at the officers' clubs. But his official station now surrounds him with all the pomp of the royal family, and he comes here with a lengthy retinue of titled attendants and all the splendor of a future king. He will be quartered in the citadel, a grim old fortress, 400 feet above the St. Lawrence.

The citadel is surrounded by old time moats and bastions. In the midst of which will be the royal establishment during the prince's stay. The quarters of his highness have been elaborately prepared with comfort and elegance within, and with gardens and promenades without, commanding a superb view of the old city and harbor, lying hundreds of feet below.

Lord Roberts is also quartered in the citadel. The grizzled old hero of King's battles and South African campaigns is already the idol of the assembled soldiery. Many of them served under him in the Boer war and he is quick to pick out and welcome his old comrades in arms. He has visited the monument erected here to the Canadians who fell in South Africa.

Vice President Fairbanks, who is to represent the United States government, is expected to arrive tomorrow, in time to be present at the welcome extended to the Prince of Wales. The vice president is to be quartered at Spencerwood, a beautiful wooded estate on which is the official residence of the lieutenant governor of Quebec.

The American battleship New Hampshire is now down the St. Lawrence, the understanding here being that she may not come up to the city until tomorrow, in which case she will probably have an opportunity to extend the first salute of welcome to the Indomitable, bearing the prince. The anchorage of the New Hampshire is just off the citadel, between the British and French warships, thus offering an opportunity to compare the latest type of ships of the three great naval powers.

When the Indomitable and New Hampshire arrive together they will give naval experts an opportunity to study the latest products of British and American naval architecture. The Indomitable has eight 12-inch guns in four turrets which swing clear around, thus showing a broadside of eight big guns and realizing the "all big gun" ship.

Among the notable figures gathered here are the representatives and lineal descendants of Wolfe and Montcalm, the heroes of the battle on the plains of Abraham. The former is represented by George Wolfe, a retired English gentleman of means, and the latter by the young Count Mount De Calm.

The French warships have also brought an official embassy headed by M. Horbette, councillor of state, and including the mayor of Provins, France, the birthplace of Champlain.

The formal opening of the week's exercises began yesterday with a monster parade of the young French-Canadians, who assembled at the foot of Champlain's monument, hearing it with flowers and singing hymns in his praise.

Earlier in the day, Lord Roberts, accompanied by Earl Grey, the governor-general, attended the Anglican cathedral while a special service was given at the Catholic basilica in honor of the Duke of Norfolk, head of the English Catholics, and the officers and crews of the French warships.

The scene from Dufferin terrace last night was one of striking beauty, with the fleet of warships dimly outlined below, their searchlights flashing and the lights of Lewis and the shore towns sparkling in the distance, while great crowds surged about the kiosks and band stands, the music of the concert during the week's festivities.

Sydney. The American fleet will be met down the bay by thousands of members of parliament and leading citizens. The week's program will comprise a dinner to the fleet's senior officers by Gov. Carmichael, a dinner at parliament house by the commonwealth government and reception to the officers by the state government.

A sporting event to mark the week will be the fight between "Tommy" Burns, the American heavyweight, and Lang, Australia's best man in the same class.

Burns will also fight "Bill" Squires in Australia. Three fights in all for Burns during the fleet's stay in Australian waters have been arranged by an Australian syndicate, which has granted the American pugilist $25,000.

Admiral Sperry's command is due at Auckland August 10, and is to spend four days with the New Zealanders; it is due at Sydney August 20, where it will stay a week; on August 29, it will reach here for another week's sojourn and on September 2 it will leave for Manila, stopping at Albany only long enough to coal.

The New Zealanders have made elaborate preparations for entertaining the Americans. Auckland will be decorated with flags from every city in the dominion and illuminated at night. The parliament sitting at the capital, Wellington, will adjourn for ten days so the members can prepare for the visit. The government has arranged for the enjoyment of 15,000 officers and sailors, including the crews of the three British warships. Six hundred and fifty American and British officers will be guests at an official banquet and there will be state balls, which will be attended by upwards of 3,000 persons. A beautiful racket will be presented to Admiral Sperry containing addresses to himself and President Roosevelt.

At Auckland Admiral Sperry will meet Thomas T. Ewing, minister of defense of the Australian commonwealth, who will consult with him about the commonwealth's reception of the fleet.

The program at Sydney includes a federal and state reception to Admiral Sperry and his brother officers; a big review at Centennial Park in which Australian troops and British blue-jackets are probably American sailors will take part. By special invitation Admiral Sperry and his flag officers will stop, while at Sydney, the government house, a beautiful residence of the successive governor-generals.

Here at Melbourne the round of entertainment will be as big as the one at

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

The American Automobile Association issued the following announcement yesterday:

Resolutions unanimously passed at a meeting of the board of trustees of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club on July 19, 1908:

Whereas statements have recently appeared in the press representing that the New Jersey Automobile and Motor Club was about to sever its relations with the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey and also its relations with the American Automobile Association, and

Whereas statements have also appeared that this club was not in accord with the policy of the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey in testing the constitutionality of the law; therefore be it

Resolved: 1. That this club is and always has been loyal to the Associated Clubs of New Jersey and expects to remain so, believing that the fundamental principle of organization is absolutely necessary for the success of all undertakings.

2. That this club is in hearty accord with the management of the American Automobile Association and has no intention whatever of severing its relations with the association, but desires to better automobileists and automobile interests.

3. That this board is in hearty accord with the proposal to test the constitutionality of the law and to subscribe its necessary pro rata share of the expense of same, in compliance with the wishes of the members of the club, as expressed by a resolution unanimously passed at the annual meeting of the club on May 4, 1908.

4. That copies of these resolutions be sent to the secretary of the American Automobile Association and Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey and to the press.

The assertion that statements had appeared that the Newark club was not in favor of testing the constitutionality of the oppressive Frelinghuysen law was news to a member of the New Jersey Automobile and Motor club who discussed the matter recently, as numerous reports have been published regarding the active steps being taken by the club to test the law's validity in the highest courts.

One member of the Newark club said yesterday that as he understood the matter his organization wished to withdraw from the Associated Automobile Clubs of New Jersey, but wished to retain affiliation with the American Automobile Association for the time being at least.

Following the meeting of the executive committee of the Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers held recently announced was made that the Chalmers-Detroit Motor company had been admitted to direct membership. This announcement had been expected, as the Chalmers-Detroit company, formerly E. R. Thomas Detroit company, had been marketing its product under the license of the E. R. Thomas Motor company of Buffalo.

The new license granted the Chalmers-Detroit Motor company is an independent one and on the same basis as the other members of the association, and the admittance of this company to the association is mutually advantageous. The well equipped factory of the Chalmers-Detroit company makes its membership to the association a valuable one to the latter, as it places in the associations' ranks another low priced car, which has been needed for some time. The action of the association in taking in this new member, which is the first for two years, is said to be indicative of the general policy to be carried out in the future.

What is expected to be one of the greatest gatherings of improved highway advocates will be held at Grand Rapids, Mich., on July 22 and 23, under the auspices of the National Convict Labor Good Roads association, which has its headquarters in that city. The assembly has been widely advertised and at the most conservative estimate it is believed fully 1,000 persons will take part in the sessions. The meetings will be held in the auditorium of the Evening Press building and many noted speakers will address the gathering. Among these are Isaac B. Potter of New York, vice president of the National Convict Labor Good Roads association; E. L. Powers, also of New York; Sherburne B. Becker, ex-mayor of Milwaukee; Sidney Gorham of Chicago; Howard H. Grosvenor, secretary of the Farmers Good Roads league there; and Wm. E. Cox, the

IT IS WITH A GOOD DEAL OF SATISFACTION WE NOTE THAT THE LOWELL ELECTRIC LIGHTING COMPANY HAS CLOSED A CONTRACT FOR A MECHANICAL STOKER THAT WILL PROBABLY TAKE THAT COMPANY OUT OF THE LIST OF THOSE CHARGED WITH MAINTAINING A SMOKE NUISANCE. IF THE APPLIANCE ATTAINS THE DESIRED RESULT, IT WILL DOUBTLESS BE ADOPTED BY OTHER COMPANIES AS A MEANS OF OVERCOMING THE DISAGREEABLE SMOKE NUISANCE.

WHAT WILL REMEDY THE SMOKE NUISANCE IN ONE CITY WILL REMEDY IT IN ANOTHER.

THE CITY OF PITTSBURG HAS BECOME NOTORIOUS FOR ITS SMOKE NUISANCE, BUT ALREADY STEPS HAVE BEEN TAKEN THAT WILL EVENTUALLY COMPLETELY OVERCOME THE NUISANCE IN THAT CITY. IF SUCH SATISFACTORY RESULTS CAN BE OBTAINED WHERE THE NUISANCE WAS SO BAD, SURELY THE MODERATE NUISANCE COMPLAINED OF IN LOWELL CAN BE READILY OVERCOME BY THE SAME MEANS. WHAT ARE THE MEANS APPLIED IN PITTSBURG? FIRST, MECHANICAL STOKERS; SECOND, STEAM JETS; THIRD, FURNACES OF SPECIAL DESIGN; FOURTH, SMOKELESS FUEL.

ALTHOUGH THE WORK HAS BEEN IN PROGRESS ONLY ABOUT A YEAR IN PITTSBURG, ENOUGH HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED TO GIVE ASSURANCE THAT FINALLY THE ATMOSPHERE WILL BE CLEARED AND THE PEOPLE WILL HAVE THE NOVEL PRIVILEGE OF BREATHING FRESH AIR AND OF ENJOYING THE SUNLIGHT UNDIMMED BY CLOUDS OF DENSE SMOKE. A REMARKABLE FEATURE OF THE SITUATION IS, THAT THE OFFENDERS ARE NOW AS ANXIOUS AS THE AUTHORITIES TO ELIMINATE THE SMOKE NUISANCE, HAVING BEEN THOROUGHLY CONVINCED THAT THE SAVING IN FUEL MORE THAN PAYS FOR MAKING THE CHANGE.

WHAT IS NEEDED IS EDUCATION. BUT NOTHING WILL BE DONE UNTIL THE SMOKE NUISANCE LAW IS ADOPTED SO THAT ANY LONG CONTINUED ISSUE OF DENSE SMOKE FROM A CHIMNEY WILL COME UNDER THE PROHIBITIVE CLAUSE OF THE LAW AND LEAVE THE PROPRIETORS OF THE PLANT LIABLE TO PROSECUTION. THAT IS THE FIRST STEP BECAUSE THERE ARE SOME PEOPLE SO SELFISH THAT THEY WILL NEVER DO ANYTHING TO ABATE THE NUISANCE UNLESS UNDER COMPELSION.

THAT IS WHY THE CITY COUNCIL OF LOWELL SHOULD ADOPT THE LAW AND LET THESE PEOPLE UNDERSTAND THAT THERE IS NO NEED WHATEVER FOR THIS SMOKE NUISANCE AND THAT IT IS, MOREOVER, A PROOF OF POOR MANAGEMENT, AND INEXCUSABLE WASTE OF FUEL.

CHOLERA INFANTUM VICTIMS

WHILE THE PRICE OF MILK IS GOING UP IT IS TO BE ASSUMED THAT THE QUALITY WILL BE KEPT UP TO THE STANDARD. TO SELL ADULTERATED OR DILUTED MILK IN HOT WEATHER IS MORE LIKELY TO DO HARM THAN IN THE WINTER TIME.

LAST WEEK THERE WERE TWELVE DEATHS IN THIS CITY FROM CHOLERA INFANTUM AND THE NUMBER OF DEATHS FROM THAT DISEASE THIS WEEK MAY BE STILL GREATER.

ALL THESE DEATHS ARE PREVENTABLE BY PROPER CARE AND TREATMENT. THE PARENTS, HOWEVER, ARE LEFT TO THEMSELVES, AND MANY OF THEM, IGNORANT OF THE DANGER, ALLOW THE DISEASE TO CONTINUE WITHOUT CALLING A DOCTOR UNTIL TOO LATE.

HAD THEY BEEN PROVIDED WITH PRINTED INSTRUCTIONS AS TO WHAT THEY SHOULD DO FOR THE CHILDREN WHEN THE FIRST SYMPTOMS OF CHOLERA INFANTUM APPEAR, MANY OF THE LITTLE ONES MIGHT HAVE BEEN SAVED AND THEIR PARENTS THUS SAVED THE SORROW OF SEEING THE LITTLE WAIFS CUT OFF BY THIS DISEASE.

OF NO DISEASE IS IT MORE TRUE THAN OF CHOLERA INFANTUM THAT PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE, AND PREVENTION IS QUITE POSSIBLE IN THE VAST MAJORITY OF CASES.

WE DO NOT SEE WHY ALDERMAN BAILEY SHOULD BE CRITICIZED FOR A NONPARTISAN STANDPOINT.

Judd Mortimer Lewis in the Houston Post.

Peter F. Collier has purchased a three-story site on the Ocean Drive, Newport, near the boathouse entrance to the Gooseberry Island club, where this fall he will begin to erect a rustic bungalow residence which in construction work alone will cost $50,000.

The grounds will include a large fountain. The servants' hall will be 50 feet long. The house will stand on the summit of land and have a commanding view of the city, country, and sea. The construction will be of red brick in Colonial architecture, and so far as possible everything will be fireproof. The garage will be set away from the house which will be three stories high and about 120 feet long.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

NO MORE EXPLOSIVES.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Influenced thereby by the fact that ten deaths resulted in the city from the late death of July celebration, the city council of Cleveland, by the vote of 21 to 7, has just passed an ordinance which prohibits any further celebration of the Fourth on the part of individuals involving the use of fireworks or firearms. If there is to be any celebrating of that kind, which has been left unregulated, it will be done by the city itself and it will take the form of an official display in the public parks.

UNRESTRAINED MOTOR BOAT.

New Bedford Mercury: The motor boat has crept in without any laws in particular to control it. It is a strange fact that a steam launch of the smallest type must carry a licensed engineer, a licensed pilot and be subject to inspection. A motor yacht of the largest size need have neither licensed pilot or engineer and is subject to no inspection whatever. It comes about through the circumstance that the laws were made for large steamships and descended to the smaller pleasure craft, which were a later development. The motor propelled boat started in the launch class and its development has not been regarded. Now the craft have multiplied and are without restraint.

BRYAN ON THE PRESIDENCY.

Johnstown Democrat: Speaking of Bryan's article on "Conception of the Presidency" the Pittsburgh Dispatch, a staunch republican paper, says:

One of the best passages in the article is a reiteration of the sentiment of an editorial printed in The Commonwealth a half dozen years ago declaring that the vice presidency should have more consideration than has ever been accorded him, that he should be elected by a vote of the cabinet, and that in all circumstances he should be asked for his advice and thus be in a position to take the place of the president intelligently and familiarly. In the event of the death or disability of the latter.

That sentiment ought to meet with general approval. There is no wisdom in making a cabinet position higher than that of the vice-presidency, especially in view of the fact, as Bryan says, that the former may succeed to the presidency.

PEOPLE OF NOTE

Capt. Samuel B. Gibson died at his home at Bay Shore, L. I., Friday. Capt. Gibson some years ago was quite prominent as a yacht skipper. He sailed the American sloop Mischief, owned by the late John R. Bush, when that yacht defended the America's cup against the Canadian challenger Atlanta in 1881. When Sir Richard Sutton came here with the Genesta in 1885 the Priscilla in the trials and was chosen to defend the cup. Capt. Gibson acted as pilot on board the challengers Genesta, Galatea and Thistle when those yachts tried to capture the trophy in 1885, 1886 and 1887. Capt. Gibson was 65 years old. He retired several years ago.

Ralph Olmsted Williams, Yale '61, died at Grace hospital, New Haven, Saturday, of blood poisoning. He was about 60 years of age and a native of Elmira, N. Y. After leaving college he was for some time connected with the New York Publishing house of Holt & Williams, and was secretary of the civil service commission of New York city for several years. During his Yale college days he was on the Yale Literary Magazine. He assisted in the compilation of Webster's dictionary under the direction of the late President Porter of Yale. Mr. Williams was the author of several books and was a contributor to the Review of Reviews. For several years past he had been librarian and curator of the New Haven Colony Historical society. He leaves a brother in San Francisco.

Charles Webb Howard of San Francisco, a Forty-niner and for many years president of the Spring Valley Water company, died a few days ago in San Rafael. Mr. Howard had been one of the big men of San Francisco for years. He landed there a poor boy and died very wealthy. For thirty years before the earthquake he was president of the Spring Valley company, which controls all the city water supply. Shafter Howard, the playwright, is his son.

In accordance with a very ancient custom the governor and both branches of the Maine legislature assembled on Tynwald Hill Friday for the proclamation of new statutes passed during the year. Seventeen acts, which arrived only on Saturday bearing the king's approval, were proclaimed by reading a summary of the provisions, first in English and then in the Manx language. The day was a general holiday in the island and the gathering was very large. There was a great gathering of interested spectators, the majority of whom were visitors. During the subsequent proceedings of the Tynwald court it was stated that during the past year no intoxicant had been used by the inmates of the Manx workhouse.

COMMUNION SUNDAY

OBSERVED BY Y. M. C. I. YESTERDAY MORNING.

The members of the Y. M. C. I. received communion in a body at 7.30 o'clock mass in the immaculate conception church yesterday. The attendance was large. Mass was sung by Rev. John McFerry, O. M. I. The choir, which was composed of members of the institute, was under the direction of John J. McCaffrey. Solos were rendered by James E. Donnelly, Jas. McNulty and Ed. Jennings. Miss Mary Allen presided at the organ. After the mass the members proceeded to the hall in Stackpole street, where breakfast was served, after which the singing program was carried out: Piano solo, Wm. C. Gilmore; song, Frank McCarty; reading, Jas. Coughlin; songs, Henry Curry, Jas. McNulty, John Murray, John McCaffrey; piano solo, Wm. Gilmore. President Kelly in a few well chosen remarks presented Rev. Fr. Reynolds, O. M. I., who was received with loud applause. He spoke to the members of the successful work done during the last six months and congratulated them on the large number present.

The committee in charge of the breakfast was Martin Welch, chairman; Frank McGilroy, James McAlleer, Thomas Allen, Ed. Cox, Frank Lang, Jas. H. Carroll, Charles Burns, John Duffy and John Tansey. The success of the literary program is due to the efficient work of President Wm. Kelly, Al. Cooney, John Cole, Joseph Kelley, John Cleary and Martin Gannon.

THE GOLDEN PEN

Sermon by Rev. George

B. Dean

"The Golden Pen" was the subject of Rev. George B. Dean's sermon at St. Paul's M. E. church last night. He spoke upon the value of the pen in history, when guided by an educated brain and the assistance a letter may render to a brother who needs encouragement. He said, in part:

"When Gen. Lee gave up his sword at Appomattox, this act did not close the Civil war, for then two great problems had to be worked out. One was the real emancipation of the slaves and raising them from the level to which they had fallen, and the other was to persuade the Southern slave owners that their Northern brothers had no ill feeling against them. This could be accomplished not by the sword, but by the pen. The message must go out through books, newspapers and magazines and thus was again shown the power of the pen, backed by an educated brain.

"The Fourth of July is celebrated with noise, parades and fireworks, and no doubt this is enjoyable for the children, even if distasteful to many of the older people. But that is not what makes patriotism. It is when the boy in school reads history, the stories of Lexington, Bunker Hill, Valley Forge, and Fort Mifflin, it is then that he is moved to go forth to fight and, if need be, die for his country. Here again the pen makes patriotism.

"It is now summer time, and many of your friends are away at the mountains or elsewhere. Can you not do them some good, can you not cheer them up by sending them a letter of good will? If you can, you will find that your pen is transmitted from a steel pen to golden.

"A spoken word is like a flower. A written word is like a seed, planted in a man's heart, where it will grow and bear fruit. Never cut a man's head off with a pen, for that is easily done. Instead plant something in his heart by a good word.

"When you go home tonight, can you not devote a holy hour to sending a message to someone who needs it? If you can do this you will find that you have indeed a golden pen. Truly, the pen is mightier than the sword.

WELCOMES TAFT

But Bryan Wants Him

to Go Further

FAIRVIEW, LINCOLN, Neb., July 20.—The statement of W. H. Taft at Hot Springs, Va., Saturday, that the Republican National committee would not accept any contributions from corporations in his campaign, was viewed here with more than ordinary interest.

Mr. Bryan gave it his especial attention. In fact, so impressed was he with the announcement that he broke his usual silence and dictated the following statement:

"We welcome him to this advanced ground and beg him to go further and announce that all individual contributions above a reasonable minimum will be made known before the election."

Late last night Frank S. Monnet, formerly republican attorney general of Ohio, who conducted the prosecutions in that state against the Standard Oil company and later was employed by the Interstate commerce commission to gather material upon which to base the government's suits, arrived and held a lengthy conference with Mr. Bryan. Mr. Monnet announced that it was his purpose to actively support Mr. Bryan in Ohio in the campaign.

Mr. Monnet said that he was authorized by Mr. Bryan to state that because of the government's dereliction in prosecuting the alleged wool combine, whose headquarters he says is in Ohio, Mr. Bryan had announced that if elected to the presidency he would at once put all the machinery of the government at work to destroy any combine that might exist.

"It will be his policy," said Mr. Monnet, "to destroy the wool monopoly that prevents competition as promptly as the courts and himself can do it. The American Woolen company had destroyed, so far as the producer is concerned, the entire benefit supposed to come from the protection of wool."

Mr. Bryan and Mr. Monnet agreed that the Sherman anti-trust law as it stands today is sufficient for any anti-trust action necessary.

Mary O'Reilly Receives

Threatening Letter

BECAUSE OF LODGING HOUSE WORK

She Will Not Relax Her

Efforts, However

BOSTON, July 20.—The work which the lodging house commission has been doing for the past 10 months and which for the last two weeks has been pushed with energy for the betterment of the lodging houses, has had a disagreeable effect upon some of the keepers of the places and apparently has caused them considerable annoyance. The active workers in the investigations have been Miss Mary Boyle O'Reilly, Miss Maude Rockwell and Miss Josephine Bleakie, who have given time and labor to the investigation and to the effort for improved conditions.

The investigators have found many difficulties in their way, and in some instances have experienced considerable trouble in getting the information they sought.

Miss O'Reilly has been especially active, and appears to have incurred the ill-will of some one of the proprietors, who a short time ago sent her a letter threatening her with bodily harm unless she ceased her work on the lodging houses and refrain from further effort in the direction in which the commission has been working.

Miss O'Reilly and her fellow-members of the commission, however, say they will continue in the line they have pursued up to this time, and will keep up their work as if no threats had been made.

Miss O'Reilly told a reporter last night that she had received such a letter, but that she was not disturbed about it, and that it would not deter her or any other member of the commission from doing their work. She would not give the contents of the letter, as she said, "it could do no good to the dignified course pursued by the lodging house commission."

LAKEVIEW THEATRE

In offering "The Captain's Mate" at Lakeview theatre this week, the Adam Good company has made a wise selection, for the play is of a kind that banishes all thought of hot weather and kindred discomforts by its entertaining story and amusing comedy situations and characters. Those who have seen the phenomenal success achieved by the Adam Good company on its first tour of New England, some four seasons ago, may remember that of all the plays in the repertoire, "The Captain's Mate" was the most interesting and amusing. It has force, plenty of melodramatic situations and climaxes, sensation, "thrills" and broad comedy, all cleverly intermingled by the deft hand of the dramatist, and it is sure to please the patrons of Lakeview theatre next week. Some good scenic effects will be shown, there will be some clever specialties introduced between acts, and nothing will be left undone that can in any way enhance the value of the production.

STAR THEATRE

This week a Lowell boy will be the headliner at the Star. He is Clarence, the slack wire performer, and he does some wonderful tricks, in balancing. He is always a favorite in his home town and draws large houses. Babe Curry will sing for the first three days "Just to Remind You," a pretty and catchy sentimental ballad. J. O. Bell will sing "Down Where the Green River Flows," a rollicking song in waltz time that is brand new. The pictures are equal to those seen last week which were the talk of the town. On next Tuesday night the amateurs will again entertain. There are several new names down on the list and this week bids fair to be the best yet. The theatre is always crowded on amateur night and it is necessary to come early to get a good seat.

SHOT BY BURGLAR A GREAT FINISH

Providence Policeman is Not Expected to Live

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 20.—Patrolman Michael Reynolds of the third precinct is lying in a dangerous condition at the Rhode Island hospital today with a heavy calibre bullet embedded in his body, the result of a revolver shot inflicted by a burglar with whom he had a hand to hand conflict on Congdon street about 3.30 o'clock this morning. The x-ray is to be used to locate the missile and the doctors believe Reynolds' chances for recovery are fairly good. The burglar who made good his escape after shooting the officer has not yet been apprehended.

Lowell Made Seven Runs in Eighth Inning

An Error by Hickman Rattled Pender and Home Team Proceeded to Pound Him—Doran Played Fine Game at First

The home team presented a rather mixed up lineup against Brockton Saturday owing to the release of Duff and the absence of Howard, the fast centre fielder of the Lowell team. Duff was released Friday night and joined the Lawrence team. Rivald was sent to centre field to fill Howard's position while Doran, the new catcher, was placed on first base. Jim Beard, pitcher and outfielder, joined the Lowell team Saturday and on Monday another pitcher is expected to report, the man in question having been recommended by the man who recommended Howard.

Kenniston was on the slab but half an inning when he was relegated to the bench and Rivald was sent in to pitch and Beard took his place in centre. The game had not been in progress three minutes when Umpire O'Brien imposed a fine of $5 on Hickman for talking. The lineup of the team was as follows:

FIRST INNING.

The visitors whanged the ball out for three runs in the first inning and the heavy stick work was produced by Kenniston being removed from the slab. Hickman was the first man up. He hit to Kenniston and failed to touch first. McKernan got a free pass then Waters slammed the ball for two bases and McKernan travelled home. Waters went to third on a wild pitch. Catterson was second out on a fly to Uniac. Donovan then sent the ball over the right field fence for a homer and two runs were scored. Bannan closed the inning with a fly to Magee.

In Lowell's half Vandergriff hit to right field and was safe. Connors struck out. Zinsar hit to McKernan, who threw to second, getting Vandergriff and the ball was sent to first for a "Dublin" play.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

SECOND INNING.

In the second inning Reardon hit a grounder to Vandergriff and was out at first. Mitchell and Pender hit grounders to Uniac and were out at first. Magee struck out and Rivald fled out to McKernan. Uniac drew a free pass, but Doran fled out to Donovan.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

THIRD INNING.

Hickman hit to Vandergriff and was out at first. McKernan hit to Uniac and was retired at first. Waters then slammed out another two bagger, but in trying to steal third was nailed. Lemieux fled out to Bannan and Beard struck out. Vandergriff hit one too hot for Mitchell to handle in time to throw him out at first and the runner was safe. Connors hit a long the first base line and Reardon nailed him.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

FOURTH INNING.

Catterson hit to Vandergriff and was out at first. Donovan fled out to Beard and Bannan hit to Vandergriff and died at first.

In the latter half of the fourth inning Zinsar hit to McKernan and was out at first. Magee followed with a fly to Mitchell and Rivald hit to Pender and failed to reach first.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

FIFTH INNING.

Reardon fled to Connors. Mitchell fled to Vandergriff and Pender hit down the first base line to Doran and was third out. Uniac hit to McKernan and was out at first. Donovan fled out to Reardon and Lemieux fled a victim to three spit balls.

Score—Brockton 3, Lowell 0.

SIXTH INNING.

Hickman got a base on balls and went to second on McKernan's sacrifice. Waters hit to Rivald and was thrown out at first. Hickman taking third on the play. Catterson hit a hot one to Vandergriff, who made a great stop and threw the ball to first. Catterson was called "safe" by the umpire and the crowd kicked but it looked as if Catterson beat out the ball all right. Hickman scored on the play. Donovan fled out to Vandergriff.

Beard struck out and Vandergriff sent a grounder to Mitchell and was out at first. Connors bunted to McKernan and was thrown out at first on a close decision that angered the crowd.

Score—Brockton 4, Lowell 0.

SEVENTH INNING.

In the seventh inning Bannan fled out to Connors. Reardon got a single and Mitchell followed with another. Pender struck out. Hickman knocked a two bagger and scored Reardon. McKernan was third out. Zinsar fled out to Bannan. Magee hit to Mitchell and the latter made an error and the runner was safe. Rivald and Uniac popped flies to Reardon.

Score—Brockton 4, Lowell 0.

EIGHTH INNING.

Waters struck out. Catterson fled to Connors and Donovan fled to Beard. Doran drew a base on balls. Lemieux followed with a hit to Hickman, the latter fumbling the ball. Beard hit a Texas leaguer to centre field, filling the bases. Vandergriff fled to Catterson and Doran scored on the put out. Connors got a base on balls, filling the bases again. Zinsar got a single to centre and scored Lemieux and Beard. Magee singled, scoring Connors. Rivald hit to Hickman, who threw Magee out. In sliding for first Rivald injured his leg, but was safe. Captain Bannan refused to give Rivald a runner but Manager Flanagan insisted that a runner be sent in. Uniac singled to centre field, scoring Zinsar and Doran, the latter running for Rivald. Doran then went to bat and sending the ball to right field scored Uniac. Lemieux got a base on balls. Beard fled out to Bannan, closing the inning.

Score—Lowell 7, Brockton 5.

NINTH INNING.

In the ninth inning Bannan hit a hot one to Rivald, who knocked it down and threw him out at first. Reardon hit a fly to Zinsar, who dropped it. Mitchell fled out to Beard. McGovern went to bat for Pender. He fled out to Magee.

DIAMOND NOTES

Lowell at Haverhill, today.
Only one home game this week.

It seems that the manager who discovered Howard for Manager Winn needed Howard's services on the Beverly team against Rockport and wrote to Winn asking for Howard in payment to him for getting him for the Lowell team. Winn allowed Howard to go to Beverly where he made four hits in the game. The story about him being ill proved to be only a promise to produce a pitcher who will show the league something real and if he does we'll forgive him for stealing Howard away on Saturday.

Our clever and mysterious correspondent "J. Carpenter" has got the fans going as the result of his very readable communication in Saturday's Sun.

Wolfe is out of the game with a couple of punctured ribs.

Jimmie Beard, who joined Lowell Saturday, can play the outfield and can pitch. He used to be a hard hitter, into the bargain.

Winn was going to can Rivald after Saturday's game but in view of the fine up-hill game that Nap pitched after Kennist on went bad it would be hardly right to let him down.

The few Lowell fans who make a practice of rooting against the home team received a severe stinging Saturday.

Zinsar had a bad week in right field. He pays too much attention to the fibres of the bleacherettes.

Steve Flanagan is a good sportsman and he demonstrated the fact in Saturday's game. Rivald injured his knee in going to first at a critical stage of the game. Sharrott asked permission to give him a runner but Capt. Bannan refused the request. It looked as if Rivald would have to limp it out when Manager Flanagan called to Sharrott to let Doran run for him. Bannan kicked but Flanagan was the boss.

In his effort to "show off" Shorty Hickman made the error that lost the game.

Paddy Duff has gone to Lawrence. With Murch at first and Eaton and Duggan catching Paddy will have to go some to keep on the team.

WINN'S DEFENCE

"Regular" Replies to J. Carpenter

RELATIVE TO LOWELL TEAM

Lowell is Playing First Division Ball

Lowell, Mass., July 18, 1908.

Editor Sun:—The letter signed "J. Carpenter" published today in your paper has no doubt been read with interest by a great many followers of the game.

I have no means of knowing how regular an attendant our friend may be, but I can vouch for my own regularity.

While I do not personally agree with all of Owner Winn's ideas in handling the team and would not attempt to class him with Burkett and Hamilton, I must certainly take exceptions to the statement that he has not acted in good faith with the baseball public of Lowell.

He has surely done something no one else had the nerve to do when he made Washington park what it is. The team has certainly been greatly improved since the third week of play, which shows, if nothing more, an honest endeavor to get a fast team.

Whether this has been accomplished is a matter of opinion as to what constitutes a fast team.

In my own humble opinion, we have an outfit representing Lowell that no one need be ashamed of, if it is near the bottom.

Everyone who attends the games knows that during the early part of the season we did not have even an apology of a team. This is well shown by the first fifteen games of which Lowell won only two.

Counting the win today, we have won 28 and lost 35.

Now, if our friend Carpenter and other knackers will deduct the record of the first fifteen games from the present standing, we will get a good idea of the class of baseball we are getting for our money. The record would then stand—Won 26, lost 26.

If Boston had a team in either league that had won fifty per cent of its games the fans would have their fill of joy.

I am not in any sense questioning the quality of baseball handed out to us in the beginning of the season, but do want most strongly to call attention to the fact that the team as made up today is playing an article of baseball inferior to only three teams. We are certainly as strong as Haverhill.

It is first division ball we are getting if the knackers don't know it.

MYSTERIES WON

The Wanderers Lost a Red Hot Game

The members of the Brookside Social and Athletic club of Collinsville held their second annual picnic Saturday at Mountain Rock grove. Despite the rain the attendance was large and the affair proved to be a grand success both from a social and a financial standpoint.

A feature of the afternoon's outing was a red hot baseball game between the Mysteries and Wanderers of the Lowell & Suburban league, which resulted in a victory for the Mysteries, the score being 4 to 0.

At the conclusion of the ball game there were contests for supremacy in the 100 yards dash and hop, step and jump, both of which were won by James Mullen of Centralville.

During the afternoon and evening also there was dancing, music being furnished by the Colonial orchestra.

The general committee in charge was: Chairman, John L. Barrett; general manager, John V. Brennan; assistant and treasurer, L. J. McDonald; secretary, William Bromley.

The large membership of the club assisted in the various details about the grounds. Those who assisted were: Supper—Mrs. John Brennan, Mrs. Maloney, Mrs. B. Harrison, Misses Bridget Sullivan, Minnie Fogarty, Alice Kennedy, May Riley, Margaret Riley, Nellie Riley, Kate Sikk.

YESTERDAY'S SHOWER

Refreshed All Nature and Delighted the Farmers

Wasn't yesterday's rain a jolly one? What do you care if you were personally inconvenienced, if your dress suffered all kinds of abuse from the splash of the big drops and your new Panama hat was made to look like a little bit of bedding from Fido's kennel, when we knew that the earth was choking for a drink?

Poor old Mother Earth's thirst had the beer-longing of a dry town such as Winburn faded to the obscurity of the evening shadows. And there was the farmer and his dear old wife, and their sons and daughters, and the wives and husbands of their sons and daughters, sitting on the shingle-worn piazza gazing into the downpour with a spirit that would inspire a barn dance at noon day. Their crops had been burning up, and looking far out into the fields they could see the earthworn withered plants sitting up and taking notice, although the blossoms had come and gone from the potato vine craned its narrow neck and moistened its parched lips with nectar from the heavens.

A strange movement was witnessed in the parks. It seemed as if the surface of the earth were alive or that millions of creeping things were moving about on it. It was the finished grass revived by the favor from the clouds. One by one the death-bed blades would rear their heads and absorb the elixir of life.

The birds knew that the rain was coming and they herded it with their sweet rain notes. They were seen to ruffle their feathers that they too might take unto their bodies the blessed rain. While the thunder proclaimed the coming of the storm the leaves on the trees trembled with a nervous tremble. They were thirsty and dirty and it was a two-fold mission that the rain performed for them. This morning the little birds, fresh from nature's bath, twittered their carols from branches made sweet and clean by the pouring rain and how beautifully fresh and invigorated does Nature seem today!

The rain of yesterday, as has already been suggested, may have discommoded you to the extent of ruining a favorite garment or canceling an engagement but as a panacea for your ills think of the many that the rain benefited, and cheer up.

The early morning hours did not give promise of the showers that developed later in the day, except that one would naturally look forward to some sort of relief from the heat, the oppressiveness of which was augmented by the stillness of the air. The day was but young, however, when the temperature began to play a most remarkable game of puss-in-the-corner, and made a record that was almost absolutely new for a July day.

When the wind did start it kept shifting around between northeast and southeast and not until after 2 o'clock in the afternoon did the big drops, the advance outfit of the whirlwind showers, strike the pavements. Then there was something doing. It was a case of winding sheets with a few comforters thrown in and despite the fact that it was falling at the rate of "steep" gallons a second the hungry earth licked it up almost as fast as it fell.

It was Lowell's turn for a good shower. We had been saying mean things about the weather man and just to show that there was no "antip" on his part he reached up and pulled open the floodgates over Lowell and vicinity. Only a few drops told the sweltering souls in Boston that we were having our annual bath, but Boston couldn't kick. Boston has had four showers to Lowell's one this summer. The last shower that was promised us went to Boston and it was a corker. It passed over Lowell firing a few shots at trees and houses but it didn't "set 'em up."

Persons who were out in open carriages, on the water in open boats or on foot where shelter was far off, may look upon this little story as a rather flippant account of a serious matter, but the fact remains that we got just what we needed and if no other argument will satisfy then let the majority rule.

Nowhere perhaps in this vicinity did the rain disport or the wind play a greater mad-cap galloping chase than at Lakeview and it's the day's best bet that this week's laundry bill will be the largest for many moons and many a fond mother will bend a tired knee over the wash tub. We pity the poor tired mothers, but we needed the rain and, besides, it's high time that the poor tired mother should oblige Sarah to wash her own shirt waists and iron her own white shirts when they happen to be drenched or drabbed around the bottom.

Quite a number were out in canoes and boats at Lakeview when the rain began and the shores of Lake Massapeque were lined with upturned boats and canoes in which fellows and their best girls sought shelter from the searching rain. Two fellows who landed at Mountain Rock walked to Lakeview carrying their canoes over their heads for shelter.

At no time during the day was the heat so oppressive as during the early part of the forenoon and the night was delightfully cool, and an ideal one for sleep.

AT NO. CHELMSFORD.

During the shower Saturday afternoon a lightning bolt struck the electric wires in front of the residence of John E. Hogan, in Princeton street, and then glanced to the water spout on the house. No damage was done. Lightning struck in one or two other places, but fortunately did no damage.

ARMY OFFICERS

Say That Balloons and Airships

WILL FIGURE IN NEXT WAR

Tests to Be Made at Fort Myer

WASHINGTON, July 20.—"In the next war that is fought the advance column will be made up of balloons and airships."

This is the belief freely expressed by army and navy officers here. For this particular reason, the army balloon tests which are to begin at Fort Myer next week will receive much attention in military circles. It is understood that several of the military attaches of the diplomatic corps will be at Fort Myer to take notes and report to their respective departments.

One of the most important results of the Fort Myer tests probably will be the establishment of an aerostatic corps in the navy. Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry will be one of the interested spectators. It is understood that the American Airship and Balloon Corporation is building a dirigible balloon to be tried out before a naval board when complete.

Another enthusiast in the navy is Rear Admiral C. M. Chester, buyer of the equipment. Admiral Chester claims that aerostatics should be an adjunct of the navy because the conditions that are met with in the air, Lieut. Robert F. Henderson, chief engineer of the battleship Missouri, has made extensive experiments having for their object the application of the gyroscope to flying machines. He has the support of Admiral Chester and other naval officers in recommending the establishment of a corps in the navy to be devoted to the application of aerostatics to naval warfare.

The advantage to be derived from such a corps, properly equipped, was clearly demonstrated in the Japanese-Russian war, when balloons were for the first time employed in naval defense. Without divulging the presence of the battleship, the balloon gives a radius of observation of sixty miles, instead of the ordinary range of twelve miles from the deck of the vessel. It also enables its officers to see objects below the surface of the waters, such as mines and submarines, which cannot be located from the deck of a ship.

At Vladivostok, in the recent war, after a Russian destroyer and a cruiser had been damaged by Japanese mines, Admiral Yessen requested that a balloon detachment be formed to make observations around the harbor of Vladivostok. The results were so convincing that the Russian government equipped a fast passenger steamer as a floating depot for the balloon detachment. This ship, the Russ, is now a part of the Russian navy.

FROM ABROAD

ITEMS THAT ARE OF GENERAL INTEREST.

British India has $6,312 miles of telegraph and cable wires in operation.

Since 1902-03 the annual earnings of the cables between India and Europe show profits of from $1,000,000 to $1,200,000.

The postal savings bank of India was established in 1882, in which year the depositors numbered 39,121 and the deposits totaled $32,242. In 1907—only twenty-five years later—the depositors numbered 1,190,220 and the deposits amounted to $49,223,263.

More money is invested in cane sugar than in any other industry except coal mining in Natal Colony, British South Africa, and it is only $500,000 short of the coal mining industry. The sugar investment is $7,200,000. The 1906 production was 23,437 short tons, valued at $2,123,000, and the 1907 production is estimated at 40,000 tons, worth $63 a ton, or about 10 per cent. of Louisiana's output. American sugar mills imported are more expensive than those made in England, says Consul Edwin S. Cunningham, of Durban, Natal.

Since the war the great Nissul Trading company of Japan has done an annual business of $100,000,000 with Europe, America, Australia and Asia. Scattered over the world the company has 76 offices and 1200 employees. The company and its business are to be reorganized to suit the changed conditions.

Many of the Japanese porcelain factories are not paying expenses and production has been reduced by 30 to 40 per cent. In Tsu-maki-mura 23 of the 50 porcelain factories have suspended, owing to the decrease in American and Chinese imports.

Shizuoka prefecture, Japan, is to have a $10,000,000 hydro-electric company, and a large paper material company—the latter being engaged in surveying the forests there for felling timber.

Prices are down for Japanese textiles, owing to decreased exports to the United States and Europe.

KILLED BY FALL

Open Air Meeting on Given Formidable Name
Common in New York City

ADDRESS BY REV. FIRST VISIT SINCE
MR. FERRIN 1860

Pleads for Elimination Pesky Things Made of the Saloon "Great White Way"

The Law and Order league held an open air meeting on the South common yesterday afternoon. The meeting opened with the doxology sung by the children of several Sunday schools with cornet accompaniment. The meeting was held near the pond on the common and was begun at 4:30. There were about 300 present.

Rev. George F. Kennigott presided and introduced as the speaker of the afternoon, Rev. Allyn C. Ferrin of the High Street Congregational church. He said in part:

"I have no hate whatever for the man who sells or for the man who buys and who drinks liquor. It is the business which I hate, which I hate as I do the devil. There has in recent years been a great anti-saloon movement, not only in United States, but in foreign countries. At the present time more than half the population of this land are living in no-license towns and states. Now it is a truth that we here in Lowell can have no clean streets, no clean politics, no clean government, until we have no saloons.

"What is the reason for this recent anti-saloon movement all over the country? The reason is because the people are getting sick of the sway over the communities the saloon has. The saloon is a hostile influence morally, socially and politically.

"I was told the other day that the tax rate of this city was greatly increased when the revenue from the liquor licenses was made unavailable by a vote of no-license. Now this is not so. That seems to be the opinion of several people, but let a few cold figures, taken from the reports most recently published, that of 1895-1896, prove the opposite. During these years the total license fees in this city amounted to $174,000. If we subtracted from this the state license of one-fourth, paid to by the city, we have left for the city $130,500. To balance this we have the cost of which licenses gave during the year to the police, estimated by the authorities to be $109,000. The cost made by license to the pauper department, the state tax and the county tax respectively, $46,000, $10,778 and $19,666. These four items of license expense add up to $224,944, to meet which we have the balance brought by license fees, $130,500, leaving a deficit of $94,444 to be paid out of the pockets of the inhabitants of this city. This is had enough without taking into consideration the unspeakable want, wickedness and misery caused by the curse of drink. Should we not then eliminate the saloon?"

Miss Ina G. Kew of the local telephone exchange is spending her vacation with her uncle, W. J. Turner, deputy of the prison hospital at Rutland, Mass.

Strange Murder Case Troubles Officials of Hackensack, N. J.

NEW YORK, July 20.—A strange murder case developed yesterday when officials of Hackensack, N. J., examined the body of Mrs. Otella Eberhard, which was found early yesterday lying on the tracks of the New York, Susquehanna and Western railway near Coalberg, N. J., and discovered bullet wounds. A passing train had cut the body in two. Otella Eberhard, a daughter of the dead woman, was wounded three times by bullets and dragged herself a mile to an isolated farm house. The police are hunting for August Eberhard, a nephew of the murdered woman, believing that he may know something of the crime. Mrs. Eberhard and her daughter arrived from Vienna last Thursday on the invitation of August Eberhard. The Eberhard girl states that there was an understanding that August was to marry her. Saturday, Miss Eberhard says, she and her mother were invited by August to go to Rockledge Park, in New Jersey, and that they wandered around there until evening. At the Coalberg coal pockets the girl says, she saw a flash between two cars and heard a revolver shot, followed by a series of shots. She started to run and felt that she was hit. Her cousin, she says, ran up to her and urged her to hurry away. After running with her a few steps, he turned back. Then, she states, she heard more pistol shots. Consciousness left her then. She had been struck three times by bullets, none of which, however, caused serious wounds. She saw her mother fall, she says, when the first shots were fired. Recovering consciousness, shortly afterward, she found her way to a farm house, whose inmates bound her wounds and escorted her into Hackensack yesterday. By that time the coroner was working on her mother's case. The wounded girl was taken to the police station, where her pace in order to beat out their brothers who are engaged in business. Not because they need more, for they may have ten times more than they can ever really make good use of, but because they want to be considered more successful than other men. Then, too, there are women who are driving their husbands as with a goad, driving them on and on, that they may have more luxury, dress with greater extravagance and shine greater than do some other women. Am I not right? Do you not know of such things? Are there not men, who left to their own ideas of life, would live differently? Is not the spirit of this monster instilled into their hearts by their wives, anxious to make names for themselves as magnificent entertainers?

"Another form of jealousy is that which impels a person to seek to steal away the good name of another. That is the kind which means that a name is lost while the thief of it is not enriched by it. Jealousy is all about us. It threatens us all of the time, and we see evidences of its work in the administration of our governmental affairs.

"The only antidote to this is to live the honest, happy life of contentment. And to do this we must love God and respect his mandates. There is no happiness where jealousy possesses the heart, where covetousness and envy are tainting the mind. Put them aside and have an abiding love in God, and this green-eyed monster will disappear."

JIMMY GARDNER

Offered Three Matches in New York

Jimmy Gardner is in great demand in New York and has a chance to take part in three big bouts if he wishes. James Buckley, the manager of the Sharkey club, is in this section and is anxious to get Jimmy to sign for matches to be pulled off within the next two months and Gardner looks with favor upon the offer. It is likely that Gardner's opponents will be Willie and Harry Lewis and Unk Russell. These are the men now talked of by the New York manager, but Gardner does not restrict him in any way in picking out his antagonists. Gardner is doing some training each day and is in fine condition. He spends some time chopping wood and also goes out on the road for a run and then does some boxing with his brother George who also is rounding into shape again and expects to make his reappearance on the coast next winter. Jimmy and George will leave for Frisco some time in September and the former's first bout will be on Admission day, one of the last dates of the year. George will also figure in some bouts on the coast.

SUMMITS OF LIFE

Sermon by Rev. Dr. Wallace

AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The Need of Excellence of Character

At the First Baptist church yesterday the pastor, Dr. Wallace, preached in the morning on "The Summits of Life," and in the evening on "The Wholesome Valleys of Life."

The text of the morning sermon was taken from Solomon's song IV:3, "Come with me from Lebanon, my bride, with me from Lebanon look from the top of Amanah, from the top of Senir and Hermon, from the lions' dens, from the mountains of the leopards."

By way of introduction the meaning of the words was given as they lie in this exquisite oriental song. Being in fact of a forced marriage to the king, the beautiful young bride seems to hear in a vision her lover, whom she loves and to whom she is pledged, calling to her from their northern home. He will carry her away from the splendors and dangers of the city, from the sin and slavery of the harem, and with mountain fastnesses of Lebanon and Hermon she shall be safe. Making a parable of this, the preacher said that the summits of life were sometimes reached because of their loneliness. What Robertson of Jerusalem said of the loneliness of Jesus Christ was true, in some measure, of every person of exalted station, or character, or vocation. Sam Walter Foss says truly, "There are souls like stars that dwell apart in a fellowless firmament." Abraham Lincoln was such a soul. Others of less note, some of them our neighbors, know something of the solitude of the summits of life.

These summits are necessary. Without the mountains there would be no rivers and no springs. Without the summits in the world of architecture cities would present a dead level of intolerable dullness. It would be a weary world in which no human throat could sing better than every other human throat and no tongue was more eloquent than any other human tongue. A world in which among the great swarming multitude of men there was no great singer, or speaker, or thinker, or hero. As in nature, as in architecture, so in achievement and character the summits are needed.

There are summits from which services are performed which could not be performed except on the summits. Only by being lifted up could Christ become the Saviour. The cross is a figure as well as a fact. One who had found a summit of life said John Knox speak with a voice which all Scotland heard. Charles E. Hughes from a mountain peak of political righteousness and personal courage won his fight the other day against race-track gambling in the Empire state. The pagan fates of Israel believed that Jehovah was the god of the hills. They were right. He would be joined with him in mighty exploits let them go up the steep hillsides. Tolstol, in his passionate protest last week against the hangings now common in Russia for political offences, spoke from a summit of courage and self-devotion. The man who in the spirit of service imperils his life for the saving of others; the woman who consecrates her life to the rescue of unsheltered and endangered children; the sufferer who in rare fortitude and patience bears a triumphant testimony to the sustaining grace of God; the young man who, amidst impure and godless companions, lives a pure, reverent, high-minded life—all these are performing a service which could not be performed on the lower levels.

There comes inspiration from the summits of life. High places, tall mountains, or cathedrals, or mountain peaks, have a peculiar fascination. They call to men to climb. And the appeal of the hills of gravel and stone has its counterpart in the appeal of excellence in sports or work or character. It is the expert swimmer whom the young men watch and imitate, not the man who stands near the shore and splashes. It is the clean-hearted, unselfish manly youth whose example sways his fellows, not the vile-tongued, selfish, cowardly poltroon. More than men realize they are rebuked, admonished, impelled, inspired by the lives and deeds of those who wait with God on the high places of character and motive.

The summits which a man occasionally attains give him confidence to attempt other ascents. The young man who has dared to enter the Olympic games or in progress in London, that they may compete against the best athletes of the world, are young men who have been winners in other competitions. He who has won a race dries to run again. He who has passed the tests of the lower grades at school has courage to attempt the higher grades. Ask the stripling who has dared to go out against the Pacific storm team. His answer is, "I have killed a lion and a bear."

Ask the life-saver who has dared to leap into the river to rescue the drowning child, and his reply is: "I have long been at home in the water." And it is thus with all our moral and spiritual tasks and life. This man dares the world a clean, upright life. Does he not know there is uncleanness in the world, and dishonesty, and lawlessness? Does he not see the streaming marshes and the miasmatic swamps? Yes, but he does not mean to go that way. He knows a path along the summits. He found it in an hour of self-conquest. He found it again in an hour of heroic resistance or achievement. Since then he has had not only a taste for the high places of life, but a confidence that he can find them and hold them.

These summits of life, where the air is pure, from which men can look down upon the dangers, escapades, necessities of low and crawling life, these summits, these heights of Lebanon and Hermon are saving summits to all who love them, who value exactness of character, who aspire to noble achievement, who steadfastly endeavor to shake themselves free from the baser impulses of their nature and to repeat continually their higher thoughts and desires. These are the men whom Jesus Christ takes apart by themselves, as He took Peter and James and John, and they behold His glory as they and He abide in the manifested presence of God.

LIES ON LEDGE

THREE MASTED SCHOONER HAROLD O. BEECHER GROUND.

ROCKPORT, July 20.—The three masted schooner Harold O. Beecher, New York, for Rockport with coal, grounded while making her berth in Fiske's cove harbor early today, lying on a ledge in the center of the harbor, the existence of which had not been known heretofore. The schooner is in a dangerous position as she grounded within two hours of high tide and with the recession of the tide it is likely that she may be forced over on her side.

When possible lighters will be brought alongside to relieve her of the cargo of 400 tons of coal.

HELD LAWN PARTY

BEREAN METHODIST AT CRICKET GROUND SATURDAY.

A successful lawn party was given by the Ladies' aid of the Berean Primitive Methodist church on the Zion cricket grounds Saturday afternoon and evening. About 300 people visited the grounds.

The most interesting feature of the day was a girls' drill given at sunset by the girls' brigade from St. George's church, Methuen. The brigade of six teen beauties came in a special car from Methuen and contributed a big share to the evening's fun. Under the direction of Captain Butterworth an interesting drill lasting half an hour was perfectly carried out. The names of those in the brigade were the Misses Clara Bailey, Hannah Petty, Faith Leaver, Isabelle Lacarte, Lena N. H., Helen Pyre, Priscilla Bell, Urtworth, Hilda McGovern, Ananda Mannfield, Elizabeth Young, Laura Ayers, Corn Bitter, Sophia Newton, Nellie Williams, Jennie Waddington and Carrie Hooper.

Ice cream, toiles and sandwiches were on sale at the grounds in charge of Miss Annie Hill.

Many games and athletic sports were enjoyed by the young people.

TO CARRY FREIGHT

Passengers Also to Travel in Two Men Were Electrocutated at Sing Sing Today

BOSTON, July 20.—Aeroplane or dirigible balloons will be carrying passengers and freight between New York and Boston within the next 18 months if the plans of the American Aerial Navigation Co., which is being organized by Messrs. Whipple, Sears and Ogden of this city, are carried out. The announcement that the company was being formed was made today.

The American Navigation Co. is created for the purpose of manufacturing and operating aerial devices and the establishment of aerial routes for the transportation of freight and passengers in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

According to the present plans the first experiments will be made with small dirigibles with a carrying capacity of two passengers in addition to the operator. It is planned to establish the stations close to the street car lines on the outskirts of the cities with facilities to supply gas for the dirigibles. Pending the establishment of the air lines and to familiarize the people of New England with aerial travel special trips will be made about North Adams and Pittsfield.

DEATH PENALTY

OSSINING, N. Y., July 20.—Charles H. Rogers and Angelo Laudiero were electrocuted in Sing Sing prison early today. Rogers execution was without special incident. In the case of Laudiero a bright flame from the electrodes at his head was noticed after the first contact and an odor of burning hair pervaded the room.

Rogers killed Willis and Frederick O'Neil, brothers, at their farm house near Middletown, N. Y., Oct. 6, 1905, and soon after killed Alice Ingerick, daughter of Mrs. Georgia Ingerick, the housekeeper whom he also assaulted and left apparently dead. The object was robbery.

Laudiero as the result of an old feud killed Michael DeAmbro in New York Dec. 14, 1906.

REVOLTING CRIME

Story of Murder of Woman is Almost Unbelievable

NEW YORK, July 20.—The tale of a crime so revolting and cunning as to be almost unbelievable has been disclosed by investigation into the case of Mrs. Ottilie Eberhard, a well to do Viennese widow whose body was found on the railroad track in a lonely section of Hackensack, N. J., early yesterday. At first it was believed that the woman had been struck by a train and killed. Subsequent investigation, however, revealed that she had been murdered and her body placed upon the track in an effort to destroy traces of the crime. As a result the police are searching for August Eberhard, the dead woman's nephew who had imported Mrs. Eberhard to come to this country and to bring her little fortune of $300 and her twenty year old daughter, whom August had promised to marry. The young woman herself, however, refuses to believe that August had any part in the tragic death of her mother.

Detectives, however, have gone to the home of the man's parents who live on a farm near Dutchess Junction, New York and the search for him is being vigorously prosecuted.

The police say Eberhard had been at work for months plotting the crime. He wrote his aunt many letters painting in glowing colors the riches that would be theirs if they would only leave Austria and come here. To the woman's daughter, a girl of twenty, also bearing the name Ottilie, Eberhard promised marriage. Mrs. Eberhard and her daughter arrived in New York last Thursday on the steamer Deutschland, the mother carrying with her $300. Eberhard met them at the pier. After settling them at a little hotel in Tenth avenue at 23rd street he took the women to a money changer where her money was quickly converted into American notes. Eberhard suggested a trolley ride in New Jersey. Mrs. Eberhard consented and the three crossed the Hudson by ferry on their way to the country. At Hackensack the nephew suggested a walk and the three left the car to stroll through the fields. Evening came on as the group passed along the tracks of the New York, Susquehanna and Western railroad at a lonely spot. Eberhard told the woman he had lost his way. A thunder storm was coming up and as it broke the trio pushed ahead down the track until in a deafening crash of thunder accompanied by vivid lightning the elder woman stumbled. "I have been struck by lightning," she screamed as she fell by the track. At the same instant Mrs. Eberhard says she saw a flash coming evidently from behind a car on a siding nearby and then a second and third. As her mother fell the girl felt a bullet graze her own neck, cutting a thin gold chain from her neck. Suddenly Eberhard urged her to run and as a second bullet ploved into her shoulder she started down the track screaming. Once she turned back to see if her mother was following her and again there was a shot which passed over the bridge of her nose, the blood from the wound half blinding her. Through the darkness the wounded girl fled until she reached a cottage where she was cared for until dawn when the storm had passed. Then the Hackensack police were notified. In the meantime an engineer body of a woman on the track and when he arrived at Jersey City he telephoned to the corner of Hackensack. Upon visiting the corner indicated by the engineer the coroner found the body of Mrs. Eberhard terribly mangled. Close examination, however, showed that the woman had been shot twice and was dead when the train struck her. The murderer must have shot the woman as she lay prostrate, in order to make sure of her death before dragging her body across the rails.

BUREAU OF LABOR GIVES STATISTICS

Tea Only Article to Will Be Reported by Show Decrease Massachusetts

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The bureau of labor made public last night figures gathered by an investigation of the principal wage-working occupations in 402 establishments, representing the principal manufacturing and mechanical industries of the country. The data collected, it is claimed, demonstrates that the average wages per hour in 1907 were 3.7 per cent higher than in 1906, the regular hours of labor per week were 0.1 per cent lower than in 1906, and the numbers of employees in the establishments investigated was 1 per cent greater than in 1906.

The bureau of labor produced encouraging figures for the use of orators campaigning for the presidential campaign. The task is a trifling difficult this year, as the cost of living has been boosted more in proportion than the advance of wages.

The statement by the bureau of labor claims that investigations covering the sales of 104 dealers in 33 localities show that the retail price of 30 principal articles of food, weighted according to consumption in representative workingmen's families, was 4.2 per cent higher in 1907 than in 1906. As the advance in retail prices from 1906 to 1907 was greater than the advance in wages per hour, the purchasing power of an hour's wages, as measured by food, was slightly less in 1907 than in 1906, the decrease being 0.5 per cent.

Average hourly wages in 1907 were higher than in any other year of the 18-year period, 1890 to 1907, and more than 20 per cent higher than the average in any year from 1890 to 1909.

As compared in each case with the average for the 18-year period, 1890 to 1909, average hourly wages in 1907 were 28.8 per cent higher, the number of employees in the establishments investigated was 44.4 per cent greater and the average hours of labor per week were 5 per cent lower.

The average price of food in 1907 was also higher than in any other year of the 18-year period, 1890 to 1907. The average price of 30 principal articles, weighted according to family consumption, was 20.6 per cent higher in 1907 than the average price for the 18 years from 1890 to 1909. Compared with the average for the same 18-year period, the purchasing power of an hour's wages in 1907 was 6.5 per cent greater.

The increase in average hourly wages in 1907 over 1906 was quite general, occurring in 49 of the 41 industries covered by the investigation.

The greatest increase was in the manufacture of cotton goods, where the average wages per hour in 1907 were 12.9 per cent higher than in 1906. In the manufacture of paper and wood pulp the increase was 10.1 per cent; in many other industries the increase was 5 per cent, and in 30 industries the increase was less than 5 per cent. In one industry, benzene steel, there was a decrease of wages of 6.9 per cent. In the 41 industries as a whole, weighted according to importance, the increase in wages per hour was 3.7 per cent.

Of the 30 articles of food covered by the investigation, 29 were higher in price in 1907 than in 1906. The articles which showed the greatest advance in price are: Flour 5.5 per cent, butter 3 per cent, evaporated apples 7.5 per cent, milk 7.3 per cent, oatmeal 8.8 per cent, cheese 6.7 per cent, and potatoes 5.1 per cent. The only article which showed a decrease in price, the decrease being 0.2 per cent. The average prices of 29 of the 30 articles were higher in 1907 than in any other year of the 18-year period, 1890 to 1909.

JOHN J. ROGERS, Of Worcester, State President of A. O. H.

row morning, pulled out from the North station, while hundreds of their friends cheered.

Probably the proudest man in the whole gathering was State Pres. John J. Rogers of Worcester, who heads the A. O. H. delegates. Years ago Mr. Rogers began active work in the interest of the military branch of the order, with the result that today this is the only state in the union which has two Hibernian regiments.

Since his election as state president two years ago Mr. Rogers has continued his interest in the military branch, but he has devoted much time and energy to the formation of the juvenile branches of the order.

LABOR MEETING

Trades and Labor Council in Session

A well attended meeting of the Trades and Labor council was held yesterday afternoon. The committee for the state A. F. of L. convention reported that arrangements for the convention are moving along nicely and no pains will be spared to make the convention helpful and successful.

The committee on arrangements for labor day reported progress and it was whispered that the committee will have something of importance to announce later. The something will be presented to the members at the next meeting.

The reports from the representatives of the different crafts indicated that business is on the mend and that but by the silver lining of the dark cloud is being disclosed. The spirit that business is improving seemed the prevailing one at the meeting.

Mrs. Ethel Casey, Ella O'Connell, Florence Queen and Lillian Ingalls have been spending the past few days at the home of Miss Alice Leighton, Derry, N. H.

Yale Graduate Did Heroic Work

NEW HAVEN, July 20.—Tossed in the waters off Woodmont beach by the overturning of their rowboat yesterday, Miss Edith Rice and Miss Edith Warburton of Brooklyn, N. Y., owe their lives to the heroic efforts of their male companion, Stanton Higgins, of this city who was graduated from the Yale law school last June. Higgins managed to get one of the girls onto the overturned boat and then getting a grip on the other girl's clothing held her head above water until help arrived.

Miss Adelaide Flynn of Hartford was rescued from drowning at Woodmont by James McNamara of New Haven.

LOSS IS $3000

Dangerous Fire in a Lawrence Building

LAWRENCE, July 20.—A disastrous fire, thought to have been started by the explosion of chemicals in the working room of William Hamel's studio at 235 Essex street, Sunday afternoon, at 4.25, caused damage to property and stock which will amount to about $3,000.

The property is owned by Mrs. Mary J. Smith of New York and the loss is said to be covered by insurance.

Several minutes before smoke and flames were discovered breaking from the windows on the third floor of the building where the photographer's studio is situated, an explosion was heard by people in that vicinity, although there was nobody inside the rooms at the time.

An alarm from box 13 at the police station brought the firemen quickly on the scene and it was over half an hour before the fire was under complete control.

REV. FR KERWIN

COMES TO LOWELL TO VISIT HIS PARENTS.

Rev. William J. Kerwin, O. M. I., pastor of St. Patrick's church in McCook, Nebraska, celebrated the 10.30 o'clock mass at the Sacred Heart church in this city yesterday.

Fr. Kerwin is a former Lowell boy and resident of the Sacred Heart parish, where his parents, whom he is visiting, are well known attendants. It was in this parish that Fr. Kerwin received his early education. He was assigned to St. Patrick's church in McCook last fall and reports show that he is doing excellent work.

After mass a reception was held, and Fr. Kerwin received congratulations and handshakes from his host of friends.
